

To Propel Huge Laboratory

Ready to Test in Five Years

U.S. Starts Work on Atomic Motor for Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government disclosed yesterday that it is contracting for a nuclear motor to operate and propel huge scientific laboratories on exploratory missions deep in space.

The plant will be ready for flight testing in about five years. It has been officially described by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as the first generator capable of supplying "both auxiliary power and useful propulsive power" for spacecraft. U.S. officials doubt Russia has anything like it.

It is expected to be the forerunner of nuclear-electrical power plants for hoisting 15-ton automatic space laboratories from orbits near the earth to lunar or planetary distances.

The flight version expected in five years will weigh about 1,500 pounds, including radiation shielding, and will be designed to run unattended in space for a year. It will cost about $8,000,000.

The system is called Snap 8, an advanced member of the AEC's family of space instrument power plants known collectively as "systems for nuclear auxiliary power." Earlier Snap versions deliver from 25 to 3,000 watts of electrical power. Snap 8 is an atomic reactor whose heat vaporizes mercury to drive an electrical generator.

In recent Congressional testimony Harold B. Finger, NASA propulsion expert, said

Snap 8 would be the first space electrical system of providing both driving and instrumental power.

NASA said in yesterday's announcement that Snap 8 eventually will be doubled in power for 15-ton spacecraft to be boosted into orbit by a three-stage Saturn.

The Saturn, whose booster stage will develop 1,500,000 pounds of thrust, will be ready for deep space missions of this magnitude by the time Snap 8 power plant is ready for flight tests. Snap 8 also could be put in orbit by the Centaur rocket to be tested next year.

Peace Scheme Not Flawless But Approved

Provincial water comptroller A. F. Paget yesterday approved the Peace River Power Development Company's hydro plan but not without pointing to its flaws.

Bound by terms of a document which all but compelled his approval, the comptroller was still free to recommend modifications to the company's proposal and his recommendations are likely to add several million dollars to the over-all cost. (See Page 2.)

BEFORE LICENCE

His views on certain aspects of the project will probably have to be adopted by the company before a water licence is issued.

He differed with the company's proposals on such key matters as:

1. Height of the main dam which he believes should be 650 feet rather than 640 feet so that it will have "free-board" of 25 feet above the estimated water level.

2. Total cost of the project which he believes may be more than $700,000,000 rather than $638,600,000.

3. Slope angles of the faces of the main dam which he believes cannot be computed "until additional tests and studies have been completed."

4. The proposed 400-mile transmission system which his report states has "little or no reserve capacity."

5. Total power output which he estimates will be "somewhat less" than envisioned by the company.

6. The project's 5 per cent contingency allowance which he believes should be 10 per cent.

In addition to the engineering qualifications, Mr. Paget said the company's proposal contained "several other matters . . . with which I am not in complete agreement."

The report recommends that the transmission system be increased from 500,000 volts to 550,000 volts, and adds that

Mother, Babies Injured

A mother and two small children were taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with minor injuries at about 1.30 a.m. today after a late-model station wagon crashed into a boulder and flipped upside-down in the 3900-block Quadra.

Hospital identified the woman as Mrs. J. Ellingsen, Ransley Street, Central Saanich.

Nazi-Loving Youth Hunted by Police

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—A homemade gasoline bomb shattered against the window of a crowded Jewish synagogue last night, and members of the congregation who rushed out were met by rifle fire.

Two persons were injured by the bullets from a semi-automatic 22-calibre rifle. One was rushed to surgery in "very critical" condition.

Mistake Kills Babies

FALL RIVER, Mass. (UPI)—Three newborn babies died in a hospital because boric acid was mistakenly substituted for distilled water in preparing their formulas, it was disclosed Friday.

The deaths in Truesdale Hospital were attributed to a rare malady until state toxicologists discovered the infants died of boron poisoning.

"It looks more like an accident than any reckless or wilful action on the part of anyone," police said. They contemplated "no criminal action at this time."

WIDE SEARCH

Police immediately began a widespread search for a 16-year-old high school junior who told friends recently he planned to "give my life for a bunch of theirs." They said the boy often sported a homemade Nazi armband and a Nazi combat helmet painted red.

The boy's father and a friend were questioned by police who found a taxicab abandoned near the Beth Israel Synagogue shortly after the 9 p.m. shooting and bombing. The cab contained a rifle, a red-painted Nazi helmet, a machete and a can of gasoline.

WHITE TEENAGERS

State investigator Harry Sims said he believed three white teenagers were involved.

The prime suspect, a high school student at Attalla, Ala., told friends recently he planned to break into a National Guard armory here, steal hand grenades and kill some Jews.

Huge Dam Still Holding

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP)—Thousands of Brazilians were menaced today by flood waters backing up behind the Oros Dam in north-east Brazil's Jaguaribe Valley, but government officials denied reports that the dam had burst.

Not Canada

Bomarc Junked By U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. Air Force announced Friday it is cancelling most of its planned Bomarc-B missile program.

But it promised enough development to deliver two squadrons of the anti-aircraft missile to Canada.

PULLED SWITCH

After emphasizing for months that manned bombers will pose a major threat for North American defence for years to come, the air force pulled a switch, saying the reason for the change is "the emphasis in the overall threat is shifting toward ballistic missiles."

ALERT SYSTEM

Ditched with the Bomarc-B will be part of the giant semi-automatic detection and alerting system known as SAGE. In Ottawa, Defence Minister Pearson said the Canadian government intends to go ahead with its plans to install Bomarc-B bases near North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que.

NO FIGURES

He also told Parliament a cheaper electronic control system for the Bomarc will be built in Canada than originally planned, but he gave no figures.

Berlin Defence 'Worthless'

PARIS (Reuters)—West Berlin's 11,000-man allied garrison is "worth nothing" from a military point of view, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Friday.

"They are too few to prepare a war against us," Khrushchev said at a press luncheon after a reporter asked him why he questioned the maintenance of the status quo in the split city where allied military forces are comparatively weak.

Flaring up slightly in an otherwise affable, hour-long question-and-answer session, Khrushchev added:

"If it is a question of preparing a war against us, we wish there were 200,000 men there (West Berlin) or even half a million. It would be easier to wipe them out and

Something Special In Chesnut's Offer

The event Victoria's gardeners wait for is at hand.

Sunday morning's Colonist will contain M. V. Chesnut's first free seed offer of the year.

This year, he says, it isn't tomatoes; the tomato seeds he's offered in the past are now readily available.

But it's something "very special."

Columbia First

Slowdown In Cards

By TERRY HAMMOND

Development of the Peace River hydro potential will have to come more slowly than planned if the vast Columbia River project starts yielding power by 1968 as scheduled.

This became increasingly apparent yesterday in the wake of B.C. Water Comptroller A. F. Paget's report on the feasibility of Peace River

Power Development Co.'s power scheme.

Demonstrators Shot First African Government Says

LONDON (CP)—The South African government charged weapons, including firearms, Friday night that Monday's bloody riot at Sharpeville "re-tors shot first and the police fired only in self-defence."

The sentence reads: "The energy generated under these proposals could be marketed in B.C. within the times expressed (1968-1976) provided no other major resource development, either hydro or thermal, absorbs part of the market."

Mr. Paget later told the Colonist that the sentence does not mean that development on the Columbia would necessarily jeopardize development on the Peace, or vice-versa.

He said it could mean a "stretch-out" of the Peace River plan which at present calls for generating capacity of 3,400 kilowatts in 1968 and 3,145,000 kilowatts by 1976. B.C. Energy Board chairman Dr. Gordon Shym said from Vancouver last night that he agrees with the statement in the Paget report.

Segregation Out Says Las Vegas

Mayor Oran Gragson, told by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said he had been promised by

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—The police officer in charge of the Sharpeville area where more than 60 Negroes were killed Monday denied yesterday that the thousands of Negroes were called to assemble outside the police station before the shooting began.

Anglican Bishop Ambrose Reeves has asserted that wounded victims of the shooting said a "big white boss" was coming from Pretoria to address them and that was why they assembled.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations security council will hold an urgent meeting Tuesday to take up the shooting of Negro demonstrators by South African police.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—All leaves were cancelled for policemen and night in the important oil port of La Cuz. First reports said a 11 crew members were injured and 23 were missing.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"RECENTLY the sign industry has been attacked by a group of well-meaning and intelligent but, I believe, misinformed... people."

This is the opinion of Clifford Vickery, a Victoria sign industry executive. I reproduce his letter—not because I agree with it, but because I think it deserves a hearing.

"Signs are the foundation of all other forms of advertising. No matter what some people pretend to think, it is necessary to advertise to sell goods or services. People will not buy things they do not know are for sale."

"A good sign creates a sense of permanence in a business... Many small businesses can afford nothing more than a sign, strategically placed. Are they to be deprived of this basic medium?"

"Mr. Clack, our building inspector, maintains that the yellow pages of the telephone directory are sufficient to guide customers to business locations on side streets and that projecting signs are unnecessary."

"Let us suppose that the prospective customer does go to the trouble of consulting the classified section... he still is not going to beat a path to the businessman's door if that door is so inconspicuous that it is difficult to find."

"Are we going to expect tourists, who are unfamiliar with the city, to consult the telephone directory in order to find motels, hotels and restaurants that are not located on Douglas Street?"

"Mr. Clack's sign bylaw proposes that roof signs... should not be permitted to direct customers to business locations off the main traffic lanes."

"Free standing signs (those erected on one or more steel poles, not fastened to a building) are to be permitted for the purpose. There are practically no locations for this type of sign, as no one would be short-sighted enough to invest the large amount of money necessary for this type of sign, when the property on which it would stand could be sold next day."

"No owner of vacant commercial property... would jeopardize the sale of his property with a binding sign location rental contract. Furthermore, no free standing sign would be allowed to project over city property. A sign that cannot be easily seen is of little value to anyone."

"Signs on the walls of buildings are to be restricted to 25 per cent of the available space, presumably on the assumption that a dirty, unpainted brick wall is more beautiful than one with a sign on it."

"Also in this proposed sign bylaw, new businesses would not be permitted signs that could compete with (existing) businesses, whose signs would be permitted to remain."

"Victoria has been, for some time, desperately trying to keep business firms from moving out of the city, and trying to encourage light industry here. Perhaps the views of businessmen should be explored before this sign bylaw encourages them to locate in Nanaimo."

"Shopping centres in outlying areas will certainly take business away from downtown Victoria. Why make it more difficult for the owners of buildings to rent space when it becomes vacant? Will the only worthwhile business locations in Victoria be located on the proposed new shopping mall?"

"The proposed size of 16 square feet (for billboards) is designed to prohibit their use..."

"There are quite a number of locations in Victoria where billboards are hiding weed patches, wood yards and other unsightly spots. If the billboards are taken down, does the city propose to landscape all these areas?"

"Victoria has long and unjustly been termed 'A cemetery with lights'. Is it our desire to make this a reality?"

So Mr. Vickery writes.

Defamation Clarified

HALIFAX (CP)—A bill to clarify and set down laws dealing with defamatory statements carried by newspapers and radio and television stations has been approved in principle by the Nova Scotia legislature.

Attorney-General R. A. Donahoe said the province's newspaper associations and radio representatives feel the act is desirable.

because the system may become a key link in a province-wide power-grid the government should conduct a study of the needs before "determining the practicability" of the proposed Peace River line.

Mr. Paget, assisted by outside consultants of international renown, said the company's proposal appeared to "provide for the maximum economic development of the Peace River upstream from Hudson Hope."

Examination of the Peace proposal did not touch upon the cost of power or the economic feasibility of the project.

Only after the granting of such a certificate will the company receive a water licence.

Apartheid 'Cancer'

OTTAWA (UPI) — CCF house leader Hazen Argue called on Canadians Friday to boycott South African goods to protest apartheid racial policies.

The federal government, he said, should have made "the voice of Canada ring out strong and clear" against apartheid, a "cancer" which was weakening the Commonwealth.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated he would bring the matter before the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting in May. He said Canada did not plan a diplomatic protest because it did not believe such a course would serve any useful purpose.

TORONTO (UPI) — A group of 300 placard-carrying University of Toronto students staged a march from the university to the steps of city hall in a demonstration denouncing apartheid.

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Advance Organization for the UN plans a silent assembly before the Ottawa office of the South African high commissioner on Sunday as a protest against apartheid.

LONDON (CP) — An unbroken protest vigil continued outside South Africa House here for the third day against apartheid.

Peace Power Project

THE Province's two-months' study of the plans filed by the Peace River Development Co. for harnessing hydro-electric potential on the Peace River produced action yesterday when Lands Minister Williston announced "over-all approval" of the project at Prince George, and Water Rights Comptroller A. F. Paget's report to the cabinet simultaneously was released here. No water rights certificate can be issued for the $638,600,000 development however until formal application by the company to the Public Utilities Commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity has been heard and approved by that body.

The Peace River Development Co. is expected to apply now for the PUC certificate, needed before asking for the water rights certificate. The PUC hearing will be open to all interested parties, and it is there that details of the multimillion dollar project may be rounded out. With both certificates in hand the company would then be in a position to go ahead with the scheme, in line with its written undertaking to the B.C. government.

Nine volumes of technical information filed by the company formed the basis of Mr. Paget's interim report to the cabinet; one in which he conceded "over-all approval" of the plan, but held some matters under consideration and advanced a number of recommendations. He reported that there were "areas of difference" which would have to be reconciled; that the cost of the project, based on 1959 estimates, might be 10 per cent more, but that a 5 per cent contingency provision would be considered. His examination, he said, did not include the cost of generated power, the unit cost of transmission or the economic feasibility of the project in comparison with alternative sources of power.

In several technical recommendations the water rights comptroller advised further checks into the building and siting of some dams, and safeguards as to safety with particular works. Whether these represented the "areas of difference" referred to or are recommendations independent of that was not immediately clear.

Two Acres for One

ALTHOUGH in the exchange of properties between the City of Victoria and the B.C. Electric Company the city has received more than it has relinquished, the transaction is one which leaves feelings of misgiving. It would be a serious thing if that sort of trading became habit-forming. While it is true that by holding out for a few weeks the city has obtained much better terms than those originally offered, that does not alter the fact that it has sold a substantial area of public parkland.

These publicly-owned areas at the south end of the Island are a priceless and irreplaceable asset. The importance of preserving them intact increases as more and more privately-owned land in its natural state falls into the hands of the subdividers to be exploited for housing development.

The saving factor in this transaction is that in addition to cash and other considerations the city will receive from the B.C. Electric in its Durrance Lake holding more than twice the area of wild land that it will surrender at Thetis Lake. Although in a different location, and for the time being not easily accessible, the public through this deal will receive two and a half acres of woodland and lake for every acre turned over to the company for the construction of a transmission line. Looking to the future needs of the people, that is worth far more than any offer of money; and the city is to receive $5,200 cash as well, plus a guarantee of perpetual public access to the Thetis Lake area sold to the B.C.E.

In the circumstances, and not overlooking the utilitarian factor with regard to the supply of electric power, objections to the transfer appear to be far outweighed by the advantages. Much as the alienation of any piece of public parkland is to be deplored in principle, it would not be reasonable in this case to say that the city is doing the wrong thing.

Where Leadership Lags

ANOTHER general has been ticked off for publicly criticizing government policy. This is not unexpected, since it is not the function of serving officers to speak against their superiors, either military or civilian. Such a man in uniform swallows his objections or, failing that, resigns.

One feels some sympathy with Major-General Penhale nevertheless. He must have reached the point where frustration could no longer be contained. Hence the magazine article on civil defence in which he wrote that a "positive degree of leadership and guidance" was lacking. Since as the director of the Armiprivil defence college he was speaking from full inside knowledge the inference was clear that the blame rested on the government.

He has been rebuked, as perhaps he would expect to be, but many outsiders are bound to agree with him even if having only a sketchy knowledge of civil defence matters. If there is one realm of government policy that has been unclear it is that connected with civil defence. Neither the present government nor its predecessor has shown any leadership in the matter, or any dynamic interest either.

Current civil defence could scarcely be clear under the four separate departments which have a hand in it, surely as absurd an arrangement as could be devised. One can easily sense General Penhale's difficulties in trying to serve four masters, so it is not surprising that vexation got the better of him.

Civil defence, like military defence, is perhaps the most troublesome problem facing the government. In a nuclear age and with limited funds not two people agree on what best should be done. Where the Diefenbaker government falls down however is in appearing not to know to a positive line, and that tends to breed lack of confidence. If people are to believe at all in home protection of this kind it must seem that the government knows its mind. According to General Penhale this is not the case.

Interpreting the News

Discussion in Earnest

By ED SIMON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, a man with a fondness for time limits, has offered the world a four-year schedule for ridding itself of the means of self-destruction.

The West prefers to move more cautiously, without pressure of deadlines, and with emphasis on the thorough eradication of suicidal tendencies with no chance of a relapse.

At Geneva's 10-power disarmament conference, Eastern delegates constantly urge the West to get a move on. Westerners try to persuade the East to get things organized first.

Given goodwill, as Czech delegate Jiri Nosek said, all things are possible. Despite the basic difference in approach, the early stages of the talks offer ample evidence that the delegates, unlike their predecessors at most earlier disarmament conferences, are anxious to come to grips with their problems.

The West's response to an offer of a less exacting schedule would depend on Russia's replies to a string of Western questions on how the Khrushchev plan is intended to work. There is little disagreement on its expressed objectives, but considerable confusion on how it is intended to be put into service.

The Easterners, for their part, have been equally eager for clarification of the Western proposals, a number of which appear to have been sympathetically received.

Both sides appear to be edging towards agreement on the thorny question of control machinery: although Eastern delegates continue to express apprehension lest the West apply controls too early and too intrusively, while the West is equally fearful that the Russians will apply them too late and too half-heartedly.

Two clear points of substantial disagreement have emerged. The West wants Russia to agree to an international authority, capable of forcing disarmament measures on recalcitrant states. The East demands a specific clause in the Western plan guaranteeing the liquidation of Western bases on foreign soil.

Nice Work!

Barnacled Democracy

By CASSANDRA, from London

WHEN the Abbe-de-Sevres in the 18th century was asked what he did in the French Revolution he replied with great simplicity: "I survived."

When certain citizens are questioned as to what they did in the latter-middle part of the 20th century, they will be able to give more colorful if less dignified replies.

"Some people will be able to answer 'I ran a College for Advanced Gas Meter Readers.' Others will be able to reply: 'I was a judge in an Egg Court and fined people as much as a bob a nob for selling unstamped eggs.'"

You don't believe me?

In the Commons Lieutenant-Colonel Bromley-Davenport told the House about Mere College at Knutsford. This establishment is run by the Gas Board at public expense, and is situated in pleasant surroundings with gardens and an imposing drive.

To quote Colonel Bromley-Davenport: "This building was purchased by the Gas Board as a staff college for advanced meter readers. Here the pupils have advanced from the peaked cap stage, with notebooks and pencils, measuring thermos, and have graduated to the higher and broader strata of the gas world."

When Bromley-Davenport tried for 18 months to find out how much all this lark costs the taxpayer, he got a sharp note from some Super Gasman snapping back that he had "no statutory or prescriptive right to the information."

Being an Egg Judge in 1960 is an equally intriguing occupation.

You are appointed by the Egg Board to penalize poultry farmers for selling unstamped eggs—i.e., eggs that do not bear the imprint of the discredited lion that all too often indicates an ageing piece of henfruit.

At Manchester the cases of nine egg-sellers charged with infringing the regulations took four hours to try by the Eggheads and resulted in some of them being fined two thin tanners apiece.

Nice work if you can get it—and you CAN get it in this barnacled civilization that is so heavily encrusted on all sides of the good ship British Democracy.

The London American

THIS column welcomes the first edition of The London American. It is a weekly newspaper for Americans in Britain.

It aims to "help the British understand the un-Britishness of Americans." This is a newspaper by Americans, for Americans, that every broad-minded, fair thinking, clear thinking "limey" will read with delighted gusto.

As a matter of fact one of the best things about the relationship between the Yanks and the "Limeys" is that nobody now worries very much about it. There are at least 70,000 resident Americans in this country and we accept them with all their outrageous, intolerable faults and their deplorable habits with jukeboxes and ice-cream. They, in return, accept us with all our abominable habits, wicked prejudices and unforgivable lack of central heating.

But if The London American can draw South Dakota closer to Suffolk, then well and good. We wish the paper every success and hope that there are more "broad-minded, fair thinking, clear thinking limeys" than we suspect really exist.

Reports from Ottawa

THE government's refusal to let the Commons' committee on defence expenditure concern itself with defence policy reminds me of the famous "hidden report" of 1957.

When the Liberal government refused to make public the official economic forecast for that year, John Diefenbaker cried "If the government has nothing to hide, why hide it?"

Defence Minister Peakes asserted last week that "I have nothing to fear. I can stand four-square on our defence policy; I am not ashamed of it, one iota."

Then he proceeded to refuse permission for the committee to investigate his defence policy.

There is a great deal of uncertainty and confusion evident in defence planning, and I believe the public would be better informed if such study of policy were permitted. It is also possible that the committee might make useful policy recommendations to the government.

But instead, the government has limited the committee to an inquiry into how the defence appropriation was spent in the 12-month period which ended March 31, 1959—almost a year ago. This may not be a wholly futile exercise, but it certainly will not bring the committee to grips with the defence problems of today.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's explanation that policy is a prerogative of government is technically correct, but committees often make policy recommendations. Moreover, circumstances can arise in which departure from the custom which bars committees from policy making is the course of wisdom. Such crisis may exist today in defence planning, and my feeling is that it does.

The Packsack

Hardly Worth Living

By GREGORY CLARK

WE who live in eastern Canada are now entering the six-week season in which a dog's life is hardly worth the living.

Many a dog will feel like leaving home between now and next month. In fact, many a dog will leave home, whether he likes it or not. He will be given away. He will be, as the saying goes, disposed of.

For even the best-loved of dogs, the time of the year has come when life becomes filled with feminine screams and shrieks. Brooms will be waved. Feet stamped. Imprecations hurled. Long hours will have to be spent sitting forlorn at back doors, outside.

This is the time of slush and mud. Back yards and gardens that have been hygienically solid all winter suddenly collapse into goo six inches deep, beautiful for sloshing in. Bones that were buried last October now begin to exude sweet aromas from the softening earth, begging to be dug up. Rivulets run in every gutter, puddles form an every hand; and how can a dog, however gifted, help throwing a little mud up on his belly as he trots with lively feet amid the imminence of spring?

So when he comes into the house—

Well, dogs, here's wishing you safe passage for the next few weeks.

The Liberals are not blameless for the failure of their bid for policy powers for the committee. Liberal leader Pearson made it clear before Parliament even met that defence would be the main political issue of the session. This was scarcely an attitude designed to encourage the government to let any of its complete policy control slip to the defence committee, which includes opposition members.

Pearson and other opposition MPs could perhaps have made some valuable contributions in a committee probe of policy. But it should be remembered that they will have ample opportunity to present their views on policy and to question Peakes during consideration by the Commons of the defence department's estimates.

Where the government was weakest, I felt, was in its refusal to let the committee probe defence spending in the fiscal year now drawing to a close. This would be a much more valuable exercise than checking on money spent a year and more ago.

One could conclude from all this that the government is too unsure of the reasoning on which it bases its current defence planning and program to want the committee to pass judgment on its reasoning.

No Nationalism in Space

(From The Ottawa Journal)

AN INTERESTING aside on the latest American space achievement, revealed that the final button which sent Pioneer V springing into orbit was pushed, not in Cape Canaveral where it all started, but at Jodrell Bank telescope in Britain.

We are sure that the British do not claim to be equal partners or anything so extravagant in this co-operative effort. Releasing the last stage of the rocket undoubtedly was a simple enough business. It was done, from England because that was the best way to do it.

The exemplary part of it all was the unobtrusive way in which the co-operation was accomplished.

There were no public cries that to play a minor role was to be subservient. The British Parliament did not hear that the sovereignty of the realm was imperilled. The British scientists simply did what they could to help.

The moral for Canada in this is too obvious to draw. The example, however, should not be missed. We may learn maturity by the lesson.

Well, dogs, here's wishing you safe passage for the next few weeks.

So when he comes into the house—

Well, dogs, here's wishing you safe passage for the next few weeks.

Resurgent Germany

By MARQUIS CHILDS

GERMANY today is Konrad Adenauer. Behind all the complex forces contributing to the German resurgence is the chancellor, as he proved once again in his latest visit to this country, is the symbol and the front of what is again rapidly becoming the most powerful nation in Europe.

It is a paradox of Adenauer's dominance of the German scene that it both heartens and alarms those who had hoped for a new and democratic Germany. He is so completely what he is—deeply religious, steeped in the cultural and political traditions of an older Germany, a stout old oak breathing defiance at Germany's enemies.

But at the same time it becomes more and more evident that he is a revered leader without challenge or rival, and the precedents for that kind of leadership in Germany are far from happy.

Increasingly, for all his allegiance to the Western alliance, Adenauer is becoming the symbol of a national Germany. The analogy with Bismarck, with Kaiser Wilhelm II and, briefly, with von Hindenburg inevitably occurs.

And, as the world has hardly forgotten, it was another and demonic leader who came at the end of this succession.

The attitude of the German people today offers evidence of both the guilt and pride that are a heritage of the past in the resurgent new nation. If you talk about the signs of anti-Semitism in Germany what about anti-Semitism in almost every other part of the world? You reproach us with seeking military bases in Spain but have not other Western powers put bases in country after country? Does not the United States have airfields in Spain?

In the view of this observer it comes down to the following: a revived national Germany finds itself competing more and more effectively with other nation-states that are themselves increasingly nationalistic.

A revived Germany will no longer be restrained by reminders of the guilt of the war or the mass crimes of the Nazis.

Nationalism, in short, and not just German nationalism, is more and more a force in Western Europe. How can you expect us, the Germans are in effect demanding, to be virtuous and renounce our deserved place in the sun when everyone else is scrambling to get ahead by any means they can? And, as the Germans have extraordinary qualities of perseverance, energy and capacity, they can be expected to forge ahead.

No one can doubt Adenauer's loyalty to a supra-national ideal. From the beginning he has been convinced that the only solution for Germany was within the NATO alliance and the European market. He talks with fervor of the dedication of German youth to the European ideal.

Yet, as the German chancellor at 84 retires into a more and more lonely eminence where his word becomes law, it is clear that while these institutions have to some degree restrained the nationalistic competition they have certainly not ended it.

Within the common market of the six European powers both Germany and France are subtly striving for supremacy. NATO has remained a defensive military alliance despite all the talk about giving it a political and economic reason for being. With France so deeply committed in Algeria, the 12 German divisions that are coming into being will have a predominant position.

The British after 1945 held aloof from Europe, apparently hoping to play the old game of divide and rule. In the face of the common market, they have organized the seven European powers that were outside and a threatened rivalry between the two groups can play havoc with tariffs and trade, not only in Europe but everywhere.

The underlying truth is that the frame of co-operation was neither big enough nor compelling enough. So the old nationalistic pieces are re-appearing on the chess board.

As France demonstrated by setting off an atomic explosion at a heavy cost in terms of money and manpower, the competition is certain to extend to nuclear weapons unless some controls are quickly agreed to and put into effect. Nor will Germany be excluded from this competition. Whether it has come too early or too late, the era of the German scapegoat is rapidly drawing to an end.

After the bomb was dropped on Hiroshima the late Albert Einstein said: "Everything has changed except the thinking in men's minds." Nothing could illustrate this more dramatically and more poignantly than the revived current of the old nationalism. In that current the new Germany is swimming hard and fast and it would be little short of a miracle if she were not.

—CHRISTOPHER MARLOWE

Service First

I am one of the barbers who did not sign the petition to the council to change the closing day for barber shops from Wednesday to Monday.

It is surely hoped that city council will also consider the interest of the public. Why have all the barber shops closed on the same day? About a year ago the majority of the barbers was in favor of closing their shops on Wednesdays. The minority, who was in favor of another day, was forced to comply with the wishes of the majority. At the present a petition calls for the Monday. If this will be granted, another minority will be forced to run their business against their own wishes.

The public would be better served if not all the barbers closed their shops on the same day. Why not have every one its own favorite day? Each individual barber will be pleased and also the public will be given a better service, especially when the closed shops are compelled (for the public's sake) to have a note on their door with the address of the nearest barber who has his shop open. Victoria is a tourist centre. At one hand we spend much money to attract visitors and when we get them here, we fail to give them good service. It certainly harms our reputation as a tourist centre when we don't consider their interest in selecting, our working hours and days in business.

We are in business to make a profit but I still believe that the only road to that profit leads over the highway of service.

No Privileges on the Sea

New Laws Urged By Canada

GENEVA (CP)—George Drew Friday expressed Canada's opposition to any international statute giving special privileges to a small number of countries seeking to perpetuate their fishing rights in waters controlled by another country.

Canada's chief delegate, presenting his country's proposals for legislation on breadth of territorial waters and fishing zones, told the UN Conference on the Law of the Sea no state should be entitled to special privileges as a matter of international law.

The proposals call for a six-mile territorial limit, in which a country would exercise full sovereignty, and an additional six-mile zone in which it would enjoy exclusive rights over fishing.

Drew's reference to special privileges was directed against

GEORGE DREW
... U.S. plan hit

a U.S. proposal, identical with Canada's except for a clause maintaining the fishing rights of any state which has fished in another country's outer six-mile zone for more than five years.

He described the Canadian proposal as the only way a coastal state could extend its control over fishing without widening its territorial waters, a "retrograde" step which would create serious difficulties for maritime and airborne commerce.

Drew argued that countries seeking to maintain "traditional rights" overestimate the potential difficulties created by the Canadian proposal. Other countries, faced with a similar situation, had found new fishing areas, adopted new fishing methods and greatly increased their catch.

A further objection to the American proposal was that it discriminated in favor of states with established fishing fleets and against new countries or those still lacking the economic resources to build up their fishing industry.

BERLIN (UPI)—East German Premier Grotewohl suggested Friday to West German Chancellor Adenauer that they attend the Big Four summit meeting in Paris in May. Grotewohl proposed formation of a joint East-West German delegation. But West German government sources said the proposal would be ignored.

Yarrows Will Build $750,000 Log Barge

A self-loading, steel-hulled log barge with two 65-ton cranes will be built by Yarrows for British Columbia Forest Products.

Cost of the barge, a radical design, will be some $750,000. Construction will begin next month.

Capacity of the barge will be 1,000,000 board feet of logs. It will be 305 feet long and 60 feet wide with a load capacity of 4,600 tons.

The monster barge will carry its own tender to move logs, both when it is loading and unloading.

It will be the first vessel to be built in Yarrows new, larger building berth at the Esquimalt yard.

Construction of the large barge will take about four months. It will provide work for some 100 men.

Witnesses Got Shocks From Marina Conduit

Three boat owners yesterday told an Assize Court jury they received an electric shock from a "hot" conduit at a Sidney marina.

The Crown witnesses testified in the trial of Herbert Murray Stockall, co-owner of Shoal Harbor Marine Services Ltd., charged jointly with the company of criminal negligence causing the death, July 19, 1959, of skindiver Richard Henry Willoughby.

Dudley Johnson, who lives aboard his boat moored at the marina floats, testified that three months before the fatal accident he tested the pipe—"I felt it with the back of my hand and found it was 'hot'."

Johnson told defence counsel Gerald Lauder that at the time he made this test he told no one of the findings, but some time later, before the fatal accident, he told Stockall and another man "look out for that pipe, it's 'hot'."

Several times Samson Roberts, who also lives aboard his boat tied up at the floats, testified he received an electric shock on "several" occasions when he touched the conduit.

Roberts testified he left the float July 19 just 10 minutes before the fatal accident. "If I had been there the accident would never have happened," the witness said. "I would just have kicked (the victim's) hand away when he tried to touch it."

NO REPORT A third houseboat occupant, Robert Joseph Cooke, testified he also received a shock but did not report it.

Prosecutor Alan Macfarlane earlier told the jury the Crown case rested on evidence Stockall himself carried out certain electrical work which would be shown to be "dangerous" because it was "improperly done."

McNaughton: Retaliate With Columbia

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said Friday that if the U.S. insists on building a dam at Libby, Mont., Canada should develop its section of the Columbia River basin on its own without U.S. co-operation.

The chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission called the proposed Libby dam "wrong," "very unfortunate" and a gift of Canadian resources to the U.S.

Gen. McNaughton told the Commons external affairs committee that if Libby is built Canada will lose forever its opportunity to divert the Kootenai into the Columbia and produce nearly three times as much power as Libby at about one-third the cost.

There was "film-flam" in the U.S. to build Libby but eventually truth would penetrate the hardest heads. It would be as economic for the U.S. to build Libby as for Canada to agree to it.

Courtroom Parade Breaking, Entering Case Scheduled for April 8

Preliminary hearing of two Vancouver men on a charge of breaking and entering People's Credit Jewelers Ltd., 1104 Douglas, has been set for April 8.

Counsel for James Weaver Hamel and Clarence Kraft agreed on that date for hearing, although neither had yet determined whether to elect trial by judge or by jury.

The two men were arrested following a chase by city police during which 11 shots were fired.

Louis Martin Miner, 30, pleaded guilty in city court yesterday to theft of a radio valued at $90 from a downtown hotel room. He was remanded to March 30 for probation report and sentence.

Det. Norman Bath said accused took the radio from the hotel room of Arthur Bagnall. Accused at the time was intoxicated.

In the same court Thorolf Anderson, 4114 Glenford, was sentenced to a 20-day jail term on a charge of impaired driving. The charge was laid following a collision between a car driven by accused and another vehicle. There was record of a previous similar offence.

TWO CHARGES OF false pretences involving worthless cheques brought fines of $15 and $25 for Leonard Williams, HMCS Naden, in Colwood police court yesterday. On the first count accused was charged with obtaining lodgings on the second, cash.

Welter Bout Ends in Draw And Hassle

NEW YORK (AP) — Federico Thompson, a poised old pro from Argentina and fiery young Benny (Kid) Paret fought to a draw Friday night in an action-packed 12-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The winner was supposed to get a title fight with welterweight champion Don Jordan at Las Vegas May 27.

Shortly after the fight ended, Tony Petronella, an executive of the National Boxing Association, said he would recommend that Paret meet Jordan May 27 with the winner to take on Thompson within 90 days.

Paret and Jordan agreed but Thompson demurred.

"Either I fight Jordan or I get a return fight with Paret," he said.

Vancouver College at 9 p.m. tonight for the provincial championship after shading Magee with a last-quarter comeback.

Considered as an also-ran until Friday, Prince Rupert overcame a 34-29 third-quarter deficit. Vancouver College entered the final with a 63-60 win over Gladstone of Vancouver.

Albion District Chieftains and Courtenay Towhees reached the last round of the consolation event with Friday victories.

VIC ELIMINATED

Albion turned back Victoria High Totems, 1959 B.C. champs, 36-30. The Chieftains scored 11 points in the final quarter to break a 25-25 tie. Victoria is now eliminated.

Courtenay, victims of an unprecedented double-overtime, sudden-death loss to Magee Thursday, impressed with a 54-37 win over Abbotsford of the Fraser Valley.

Albion plays Semiahmoo, another Fraser Valley entry, at 2:30 p.m. today. Winner takes fifth place, loser eighth. Courtenay and Penticton clash at 3:45. Winner takes fourth, loser seventh.

Friday's showing was the best of the tournament by the Courtenay team. Pre-tournament favorites, Courtenay led 28-25 at the half and 39-32 entering the final quarter.

Gordon McKay led Courtenay with 15 points.

Hull Returns, Plays Tonight

Chicago Black Hawks' night at Montreal as Black Hawks attempt to even the best-of-seven series. Montreal won the opening game 4-3 Thursday at Montreal.

Reports from Montreal said Hull was sufficiently recovered from an acute infection of the tonsils. Hull, NHL 1960 scoring champ, missed the opening game.

The return of Hull, a 39-goal man in the regular season, will allow Pilius to reunite his top forward line. Rookie Red Hay will centre Hull and Murray Balfour.

Rookie forward Stan Mikita who missed the first game due to an eye injury also will play tonight. Eric Nesterenko and Ted Sloan will play after collecting 12 stitches between them in a collision Thursday.

Two horses, including favored Suirvale, were killed in a steepchase race at Aintree, England, prior to the Grand National. Suirvale crashed at the first fence in the Topham Trophy and had to be destroyed. Halverston also was destroyed after falling.

Rematch At Arena Tonight

By JIM TANG
Colonist Sports Editor

SEATTLE—Victoria Cougars not only effectively muzzled Guyle Fielder but also scored two goals against his line Friday night to take a dramatic 3-2 overtime win from Seattle Totems in the opening game of a best-of-seven Western Hockey League semi-final.

A spectacular goal by Gordie Haworth, his second of the game, at 9:21 of sudden-death overtime gave Victoria the win before 2,754 partisan Seattle fans.

Haworth's overtime goal also set the stage for a return battle between the teams tonight at Memorial Arena in Victoria. The Friday win was an important one for Cougars as Totems have yet to win at Victoria this season.

Victoria manager-coach Hal Laycoe gave his Haworth-Goyer-Ford line the assignment of checking Fielder last night. The move paid off handsomely as Fielder, centering Jim Powers and Tom McVie, managed but a lone assist.

The Victoria threesome rendered the Totems' top line almost ineffective. Fielder earned a questionable assist on Bill MacFarland's first-period goal, but the WHL scoring champion was moved to an other line at that time.

TURNING POINT

A spectacular save by goalie Pelletier early in the overtime period was probably the turning point.

The teams were tied 2-2 when Seattle defenceman Les Hunt fired from the blue line. MacFarland deflected the shot towards the far corner but the ever-alert Pelletier managed to get his knee in the way.

From that point it seemed only a matter of time until Victoria, completely dominating play, scored the winner.

AFTER YOU

It came when Seattle defenceman Frank Arnett and goalie Rex Bentley apparently failed to decide who should chase a loose puck. Bentley finally skated out of his net towards the puck but Victoria's Gerry Goyer, acquired from Seattle earlier this season, got there first.

Goyer grabbed the puck, faked a shot, and Bentley moved towards the Victoria player who quickly passed to Haworth. The latter hit the open side of the net with a quick shot.

Victoria had to come from behind twice to force the game into overtime. Both Seattle goals came in the first period on power plays.

IN ALONE

Rop Matthews was penalized when Powers put Seattle ahead 1-0 at 7:14 but Haworth tied it at 9:57 on a fine individual play. Haworth carried the puck into the Seattle zone and despite losing it to a Totem defender, grabbed it back and went in alone.

A penalty to Pete Wright paved the way for Seattle's second goal. MacFarland connecting at 12:55.

But Cougars fought back to tie it at 2:22 early in the third period with Masnick firing a 15-foot backhand past Bentley.

BY SURPRISE

Art Jones did the leg work, carrying into the Seattle zone and passing to Masnick, who wheeled and caught Bentley by surprise with a quick shot.

It was Victoria's third win on Seattle ice this season. A shaky Seattle defence gave Victoria plenty of openings throughout as Cougars controlled play after the first period.

Victoria: Goal: Pelletier; defence: Wright, Bouda, Ray, Matthews; forwards: Blackburn, Ford, Haworth, Anderson, Goodwin, Falloway, MacNutt, Jones, Goyer, Masnick.

Seattle: Goal: Bentley; defence: Hunt, Steadman, Davidson, Arnett, Woodward, Fielder, McVie, Powers, Pilon, MacFarland, Bouda, Leonard, Ginnell, Demore.

Two Bad Frames And Lead's Gone

By JIM TAYLOR

Roy Beggs has 29 pins to play with as he goes into the second half of the city zone tenpin championships, but he isn't feeling particularly comfortable about it.

Beggs knows as well as anyone how quickly a lead like that can evaporate. Two bad frames in any one game, and it's gone. That is why as 47 bowlers get set to roll six games tonight, the zone rolloff in effect is starting all over again.

ON HOME LANS

However, Beggs does have one thing going for him today. He will be bowling on his own Strathcona Bowling Alley lanes, and a good fast start to day could take a great deal of the pressure off for the last six games tomorrow at Gibson's Bowladrome.

To date he is averaging 188.5 for 12 games with a 2,262 total. Tied for second place with 2,233 are defending champion Wilbur Webb and Ron Wilson, while Ken Munn, the only two-time winner of the event, is still within striking distance at 2,187.

Winner and runner-up continue on to the Island rolloff, with the winner there going into the provincial final. From there the next step is the Alberta-B.C. final, followed by the Canadian championships and a possible berth in the ABC Masters.

Shifts at Strathcona today roll at 2 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Draw is listed below. Sunday's draw will be made tonight, with the top six bowling together and the remainder bowling in groups of six according to standing.

Plans to 'Hibernate'

Stilt Quits Pro Hoop Loop

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, who broke virtually every record in the National Basketball Association this season as a rookie, is quitting the professional game. "I'll never play basketball in the NBA again," Chamberlain told the New York Post Friday.

Chamberlain apparently made his decision after his team, Philadelphia Warriors, bowed out of the NBA playoffs Thursday night after losing to Boston Celtics 119-117.

"This is my last game," The Post quoted the seven-foot-one giant as saying. "This is it. I hate to go out this way. I was hoping our team would go all the way and I could go out a winner. But my mind is made up."

Asked what were his plans for the future, Chamberlain said: "Hibernate".

Chamberlain, called the greatest basketball player of the generation, was voted both the most valuable player and the rookie of the year in the NBA this year.

He led scoring with an average of 37.5 points for 75 games.

There was no immediate reason given for his decision.

Celtics now meet the western division champions for the NBA title. The western final was forced to a seventh and deciding game when St. Louis defeated Minneapolis 117-96.

Big Test For Evcoes Today

Victoria Evcoes will have their work cut out for them today in a bid to become the first Vancouver Island team ever to reach the Province Cup final.

Providing the opposition for Evcoes at Royal Athletic Park will be Vancouver Firefighters, one of the strongest mainland teams to appear here in years.

Evcoes and Firefighters meet at 2 p.m. in a Province Cup semifinal.

Firefighters are the highest scoring Vancouver and District League team.

Meanwhile, five Victoria and District games are scheduled Sunday at 2 p.m.

Saanich Thistles meet Brodies at Reynolds Road Park; Kickers play Victoria West at Heywood Avenue Park; Navy hosts Gorge Hotel at HMCS Naden; Heaneys play Canadian Scottish at Central Park and Ladysmith hosts Esquimalt.

EVERTON BEATEN
LONDON (Reuters)—Newcastle United defeated Everton 2-1 at Everton Friday night in an English League first division soccer game. It was the only league game played Friday.

Control Key Issue East, West Agree

CHRISTIAN HERTER
... decision secret

U.S. 'Puts Cart First' Reds Say of Inspection

GENEVA (Reuters)—East and West warned one another Friday their disarmament talks would get nowhere unless one side changed its mind on the issue of controls.

Argument began when U.S. delegate Frederick Eaton proposed the 10-nation conference begin a study Monday of international control machinery.

CONCRETE PLANS

Soviet delegate Valeriy Zorin rejected the suggestion, saying the conference first must discuss concrete measures of disarmament to determine what control measures should be applied.

He said Eaton was "putting the cart before the horse," but added later he would be willing to discuss disarmament measures and controls simultaneously.

This was the method adopted successfully at the talks here among the U.S., Russia and Britain on a nuclear test ban.

Eaton warned that all previous attempts to end the world arms race had foundered over this same dispute.

SMOKE OUT

U.S. officials Friday night rejected the idea that the talks were already deadlocked. They said Eaton was mainly trying to "smoke out" the Communists' exact stand on controls.

Zorin warned it would be "a waste of time" to discuss control without knowing to which disarmament measures it would apply.

NO DISCUSSION

"Why discuss the number of controllers when there has been no discussion on the amount of personnel to be cut?" he asked.

But Zorin said the two sides had moved closer together since the talks began, and added he is prepared to make some alterations to meet

Western objections. For example, he said, nuclear disarmament could have higher priority.

His attitude was prompted by fear that rejection of the Soviet plan might imperil the forthcoming summit conference.

U.S. Hides Hand Till Mac Arrives

WASHINGTON (CP)—State Secretary Christian Herter said Friday certain features of Russia's nuclear test ban proposal are unacceptable to the U.S., but left open the possibility the U.S. position may be modified.

Herter said the U.S. will not disclose its position until President Eisenhower completes his talks with Prime Minister Macmillan.

TWO DAYS

The two leaders will open two days of talks at Eisenhower's Camp David retreat Monday. Herter said they will "see to what extent the two positions can be reconciled."

Herter declined to divulge details of the U.S. position but he said any unpolished ban would violate established U.S. policy.

POLICED BAN

Russia has agreed to a controlled and policed ban on large-scale blasts and have asked for a moratorium of four or five years on underground blasts packing less punch than the equivalent of 19,000 tons of TNT.

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Macmillan leaves for Washington today with mounting hopes for an Anglo-American compromise plan on a nuclear test ban.

He met with his cabinet Friday and received its backing for his Washington policy, designed to prevent any slipup which could ruin prospects of success at the summit.

Diplomatic sources said a compromise was shaping up which would prevent outright U.S. rejection of the recent Soviet plan to ban all but minor, hard-to-detect underground tests and a four to five-year moratorium on these.

His attitude was prompted by fear that rejection of the Soviet plan might imperil the forthcoming summit conference.

Up to Their Ears in It

Ideally, the soil should be loose under the bulb, but firm at the surface around the tip of the bulb. The best way to accomplish this is to scrape a little hole with a plant label, sit the bulb in this with the soil level with its shoulders, then tread the soil rather lightly on each side of the bulb row.

To Pay or Not to Pay

Most TV attractions should cost pennies, nickels and dimes. No more, and by law. But apparently these things have never been discussed because proponents of pay-TV are greedy and don't want to commit themselves. Opponents of pay-TV are muddying the water by making pay-TV sound hideously expensive in return for what the public gets now "for nothing."

David's a Happy Ladd

Herbert Marshall celebrated his 50th year as an actor with a gift magnum of champagne. "But my best present," said Marshall, "was seeing my daughter Sarah (who is 27) on TV with Rex Harrison in 'Dear Arthur.'" Next for Herbert is "Midnight Lace," with friend Rex, and Doris Day.

They Never Had It So Good

Employers sometimes resort to "stealing" personnel from each other. And the wages they pay, rising all the time, are helping to bring Germans a standard of living higher than anywhere else in Europe, apart from Britain.

In 1959, the average work week shrank from 48 to 45 1/2 hours at the same time the basic salary rose to $25.50 weekly, compared to $14.53 in 1950.

'Marginal Sanitation' Spreading Dysentery

DUNCAN — A "widespread and severe" outbreak of dysentery in "epidemic" proportions has swept the area from Nanaimo to Duncan and is now reported north of Nanaimo.

Medical health officer C. J. G. Mackenzie suggested persons suffering from it should remain in bed, call their doctor and take every precaution to stop its spread.

"We have had 57 laboratory diagnoses in the last six weeks. That's a lot," he said from his home here last night. "We estimate there are five to 10 cases for every lab test, placing the total at from 250 to 500."

No deaths have been attributed to the bacterial dysentery, although Dr. Mackenzie said there is a chance it could be fatal to young children or older persons who are in a weakened condition.

It is believed it started in the rural area north of Chemainus. The source has not been tracked down although it usually can be, he said.

"We, in this area—in the whole province, as a matter of fact—are a pretty marginal sanitation people," he commented.

Lately there have been reports north of Nanaimo, indicating that the epidemic is continuing to sweep the island.

The germ can be detected first when a person seems to have "off moments"—feeling tired, then the start of diarrhoea and a feeling of weakness that forces the person to bed.

"Those who have these symptoms should call their doctor and remain in bed," he said.

Dr. Mackenzie said the germ is becoming prevalent in various parts of the province, including the Kootenays from where he came last fall. "Ever since I came here there have been reports of the germ," he said. "It is not a new germ, so there is no doubt it was here before."

Disposal Unsatisfactory In Every Community

NANAIMO—Health unit director Dr. C. J. G. Mackenzie states in his annual report that "not one single community garbage disposal system with the Central Vancouver Health Unit is satisfactory."

Burying or burning was the only safe and satisfactory garbage disposal method and nowhere in the unit were these methods used in place of open-face dumps.

Doctors Oppose CCF Plan

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons announced Friday it supports extension of health and accident benefits through indemnity and insurance plans.

The 36-member CCF government, however, says it will "stand or fall" on the pre-paid compulsory medical care plan it will introduce in 1961 if elected in the provincial election expected in the spring.

President Dr. A. J. M. Davies of the college said Friday the college has no intention of doing battle with Premier Douglas and the CCF party or any other political party.

Cold Wave Defies Spring, Wallops Eastern Canada

TORONTO (UPI) — A spring cold wave paid no attention to the calendar in eastern Canada on Friday with snow and below normal temperatures covering most regions between Manitoba and Newfoundland.

The weatherman predicted that the wintry type weather would continue far into the weekend.

The below normal temperatures for the first week of spring were caused by a mass of cold air sweeping down from the Arctic.

Most of Ontario had sunny weather Friday, but there were a few light snow flurries near Lake Huron, and skies were cloudy west of Lake Superior. Snow moved into extreme western Ontario as far as Kenora. The high ridge that brought the sunny weather brought extremely cold air as well.

Temperature readings were well below zero in all but the most southerly points, and Bay reported only 5 above White River fell to 31 below. However, Windsor and Temperatures Friday after some communities from Arm-noon were in the teens in strong to Sault Lookout most of Ontario, and North reached the low twenties.

"The piece got bigger and bigger," she said. "I realized it wasn't paper."

Then she yelled to five-year-old Douglas to run. The boy did and when the air force jet trainer's tank smashed through telephone wires and hit the ground it missed him. But the 40-pound aluminum

Combines Trial

'Spike Their Guns' Sugar Boss Said

WINNIPEG (CP) — A telephone conversation in which executives of the British Columbia Sugar Refining Company Limited discussed the possibility of threatening the Manitoba Sugar Refining Company was submitted as evidence Thursday at a combines trial here.

Charged with operating a combine are British Columbia Sugar Refining Company Limited and the B.C. Sugar Refinery Limited.

Crown Prosecutor F. O. Meighen told the court after the transcription of the telephone conversation was read that it occurred on March 11, 1955, shortly before the British Columbia firms bought shares in the Manitoba sugar company.

Participants in the conversation were H. A. Johnstone, sales manager of British Columbia Sugar Refining Company Limited, and A. M. Robertson, vice-president of the company.

Asked by the vice-president if Manitoba Sugar was cutting prices in Saskatchewan, Mr. Johnstone replied that the Manitoba company was giving a 10 cent quarterly incentive bonus to Western Grocers.

Mr. Johnstone said the "only object is to step in and spike their guns."

Mr. Robertson: "Well, Harry, it looks as though we are going to have a knock-down-drag-out talk with Manitoba."

Mr. Johnstone: "I think we are, Mr. Robertson. I think we are going to have to threaten them—right in the belly in Winnipeg."

Mr. Robertson: "Well, we will drop all the way through if they are going to be tough."

Mr. Johnstone: "Yes, but I think if we hit them in Winnipeg we are going to hurt them a heck of a lot; if we hit them in Winnipeg and make some protection in our east Saskatchewan market, we may be able to really cripple them."

Mrs. Khrushchev Meets Mona Lisa

PARIS (AP) — The enigmatic smile of the Mona Lisa met Mrs. Nina Khrushchev's more expansive grin when the Soviet premier's wife and daughters visited the Louvre Friday.

She did a rapid tour of the museum, which can take days, in 40 minutes.

President de Gaulle took the Khrushchevs to the opera Friday night, and 20,000 people jammed the streets around the Place de L'Opera.

As they entered the presidential box to the applause of the crowd, Khrushchev and his wife applauded back, Russian fashion. De Gaulle solemnly looked over the audience like a fatherly impresario counting the house.

The opera was "Carmen."

City Job Proposed For Gina

Victoria hotelkeepers have asked the Chamber of Commerce to support them in a bid to entice movie companies to build studios and make pictures in Victoria.

Chamber directors yesterday agreed to see what they could do to this end.

"Fine," said one director. "Let's provide some local work for Gina."

Another replied: "Haven't we had enough trouble already with busts?"

Airborne Bunny Expected

An airborne Easter Bunny and hundreds of dozens of Easter eggs will be highlights of Easter Saturday, April 16, this year, for Greater Victoria youngsters.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will hide the eggs in a special area—not yet selected—and children will be invited to hunt for the eggs.

During the egg hunt a "bunny copter" will land in the area, carrying the Easter Bunny, who will mingle with the children and hand out prizes to the lucky ones, probably bicycles.

Jetliner Coming Today

Anyone who spent yesterday afternoon looking for a DC-8 in the skies over Victoria can look again today. This time it's coming.

The 127-passenger Trans Canada Air Lines plane, soon to be used on a four-hour Montreal to Vancouver flight, will circle Greater Victoria today between 2 and 3 p.m. weather permitting.

It had been reported that the plane would appear yesterday.

Sudbury II Rides Out Bad Storm

Storm-battered Victoria tugboat Sudbury II was hove to yesterday riding out a Pacific storm with winds up to 65 miles an hour. Officials of the Island Tug and Barge said last night the tug and its aircraft carrier tow has been almost constantly battered by gales for past three weeks. Her last reported position was some 300 miles off the Japanese coast.

Cluster or Modern? Chamber Asks Both

Unable to reach a decision as to whether the city's cluster lights should remain, or their place be taken by a modern form of lighting, Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors decided yesterday after lengthy discussion to ask for both.

The directors were asked by Bernard Cox to endorse a recommendation of the tourist trade group that no cluster lights should be removed as they were a valuable tourist attraction. Opposition to the motion was expressed by various merchants. Director T. G. Denny said the cluster lights were inadequate and were affecting the business of downtown merchants.

LOCAL HATRED

"It is just an example of the local hatred of having things changed," he said. "It is a shame to condemn Victoria to inadequate street lighting."

He pointed out that the 700 block on Yates had removed the cluster lights and installed modern lighting, much to the benefit of merchants on that street.

"Yet I doubt if many people realize that the clusters have gone," he added.

Director Aubrey Kent agreed that downtown lighting was inadequate and thought if clusters were to remain they should be confined to areas like the Inner Harbor.

INEFFICIENT

Peter Forward, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said that his group had made a study of cluster lights and tests had shown they were quite inefficient.

"We need adequate lighting, and it is surely not necessary in the interests of the tourists to conduct the business of the whole city as if it were an antique castle. The city should come out of the dark ages and face realities," he said.

Director R. A. H. Lort disagreed with Mr. Denny. He wanted the clusters to remain because they are part of old Victoria.

OVERPLAYED

Mr. Lort thought the safety angle of the present lighting system had been overplayed.

"The street accidents that occur here are mainly due to rotten driving and blind pedestrians, and not to bad lighting," he said.

He added that if the bright lights of the 700 block were extended the other areas would merely attract the "Yates Street cowboys."

"Let them stay where they are," he said.

MANY ACTS

Former president Hugh Stephen, who supported retention of the cluster lights, suggested that Victoria put on many acts during the year for the tourists and then return to the normal everyday life.

He suggested the city could have both cluster and modern lights. It was then that director E. E. Pearlman moved an amendment to the motion that the cluster lights should remain and a modern system be put in as well.

The amendment was endorsed unanimously.

Loss Not So Low

1959 Fire Alarms Lowest in 10 Years

Number of alarms received by the city fire department in 1959 was the lowest in 10 years, annual report of the fire chief shows.

But the loss involved in fires wasn't. At $149,254, it was the fourth highest in the 10 years.

Major classifications of alarms among the 743 received included false alarms, 82; chimneys, 148; grass and bush, 69; oil-burning equipment, 54; rubbish, 58; smokers' carelessness, 39; motor vehicles and boats, 54; inhalator-resuscitator, 47.

On the inhalator calls, 27 persons were revived and one needed no treatment.

Stooges 'Worst'

City TV 'Circus' May Hurt Young

A letter before the PTA council at North Ward School last night deplored the quality of entertainment offered in CHEK's "Junior Circus" every weekday afternoon.

The letter from Mrs. Patricia Thomas, corresponding secretary of the council, said the type of entertainment offered was likely to be harmful to juveniles and called "The Three Stooges" as the "worst kind of slapstick."

Council members decided, however, not to protest as a body but to write individual letters if so moved.

Car Wash Set Today

June graduation ceremonies at Royal Oak Junior-Senior High School will be partly financed by a car wash to be held at the Royal Oak shopping centre today, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Maj. Gen. C. R. Stein, honorary chairman of the Victoria and district Red Cross drive, reported yesterday that $30,633 or 39 per cent of the $79,000 objective had been reached.

Gen. Stein said that the good response so far indicated that the public appreciated the fine work of the Red Cross despite the many calls made upon their generosity.

11-Per-Cent Wage Boosts Awarded Police, Firemen

Saanich, Oak Bay Raised

Wage increases of approximately 11 per cent have been awarded by a conciliation board to Victoria police and firemen, with allied increases going also to police and firemen of Saanich and Oak Bay.

Mayor Percy Scurrell was not available for comment on the award which will cost city taxpayers an additional $117,000 a year, but Ald. Arthur Dowell, senior member of city council, said:

RATHER SURPRISED

Award was signed by Frederick Cope, of Vancouver, chairman of the board, and Paul Payne, representing the police and fire unions. A minority report will be issued by Linden Bell, representative of Victoria and the municipalities.

CONSTABLES LOWER

The 1959 contract left first-class Victoria constables $3.01 a month below fourth-year firemen, with comparable differences for other ranks.

Yesterday's award first closed this gap by bringing police scale to parity with that of the firemen; then gave an 11 per cent increase across the board to both departments.

Saanich department members receive 98 per cent of the city figures. Oak Bay men receive $10 per month less.

$117,000 YEAR

Dennis A. Young, comptroller-treasurer of Victoria, said last night the increase would cost the city $117,000 per year.

In addition, city police were granted a three-week holiday with pay after eight years, and four weeks after 20 years.

Lorne Shandley, president of the Victoria police union, said the award "brings us back to our original position with regard to other major police and fire departments of the province."

ROUND FIGURES

In round figures, Victoria's first-class constables will now receive $456.50 per month—and the increase is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1960.

First-class constables in Vancouver, now receiving $451, have been offered a 3½ per cent increase. New Westminster officers get $5 per month less than Vancouver. West Vancouver men are now receiving $451, in a new contract.

Last year, while departments outside Greater Victoria were awarded percentage increases, Victoria police were given a flat $10 raise.

USEFUL GUIDE

Majority members of the conciliation board said they "take the view that wages to police officers other than in Victoria provide a useful guide which cannot be ignored."

These board members held that a substantial wage increase was necessary to reduce the disparity between Victoria and other parts of B.C., stemming from the 1959 agreement.

Victoria's giant camelia bush is in full bloom, about two weeks earlier than usual.

Saanich Boy 'Satisfactory' After Being Hit by Car

A Saanich boy is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital after being in an accident at Trans-Canada Highway and Tillicum Road at 4:35 p.m. yesterday.

Richard Henson, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Henson, 3715 Tillicum, received a possible concussion, a severe cut high on the forehead and shock. He was hurried to hospital by Saanich police.

Driver of the car involved, police said, was Florence M. Nelson, 1111 Skeena Place, who was driving out from Victoria.

One eyewitness, Ben Fenger, of the Goldstream Coffee Shop, told the Colonist:

"I stopped at the Tillicum crosswalk to let two boys cross. One of them suddenly ran across the road and was hit by a car travelling west." The boy's mother was with him when he was rushed to X-rayed and admitted.

Wheel Buckles

Cyclist Skids Into Car, Fractures Leg Badly

A 40-year-old motorcyclist was taken to hospital after his cycle went out of control and skidded into the path of a station wagon in the 900 block Pandora at 6:25 p.m. yesterday.

Fred A. Smith, 920 Pandora, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, was later reported in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital. He came out of a driveway on his lightweight motorcycle, turned left onto Pandora and went into a skid when his front wheel buckled, sliding into a station wagon driven by Dennis Carter, 2564 Penrhyn, said police.

The proposed move would do nothing to better the service.

Shifting of the ferry service would discourage tourists from spending more time in the Victoria area.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: A very nice girl, aged 15, whom I will call Marylou, babysits for us. She's bright, trustworthy and pleasant. The kids love her. The problem is she's deeply religious which is admirable, but her religion is different from ours. It would not matter except she seems to be fast at work converting our children.

Our son is 7 and our daughter is 9. They are becoming terribly confused because the things Marylou tells them do not jibe with what they hear in Sunday school. They accept everything Marylou says as gospel and have started to ask us some involved questions. How should intelligent parents handle this situation? — WITHOUT MALICE

Dear Without: Tell Marylou in a gentle manner that she is not employed to give your children religious instruction. Ask her to refrain from discussing religion with the children; point out they are becoming confused by the conflicting philosophies.

Tell your youngsters that Marylou's ideas on religion are perfectly fine for her, but not for them. Explain that one of the great privileges of living in a democracy is that there are many different religions practiced here and everyone has a right to follow his own.

Heartache Gets Worse

Dear Ann: Time is supposed to heal wounds, but it seems as if my heartache gets worse instead of better.

My husband was stationed in Japan in 1954. We were married the year after he returned. He told me all about his experiences overseas, even the shameful part. He lived with a Japanese girl for several months. He said he wasn't in love with her but that she loved him. They had a child. When he first told me I felt bad but dismissed it from my mind. Then I became pregnant with our first child. It began to prey on my mind that this would be my first, but not his. I've become despondent and miserable. What shall I do? — TORTURED WIFE

Dear Tortured: Of all the futile, useless, energy-wasting, debilitating pastimes, this takes the prize. If you are unable to bury this six-year-old corpse by reasoning that it belongs in the dead past, then see a psychiatrist and talk it out of your system.

Trouble with the Law

Dear Ann: Our 17-year-old son is in trouble with the law. He stole a car, according to them, but I know he was only having a little fun and didn't intend to keep it more than a few hours.

I also don't think he should be blamed. Our son and another fellow (who is 15) were walking down a side-street. They saw this beautiful, shiny convertible with the motor running. No one was in the car, so on the spur of the moment they decided to take it for a ride.

People who tempt kids by leaving keys in their cars and motors running are more to blame than the kids who take them. My boy would not be in trouble today if some thoughtless person hadn't made it so easy. — JERRY'S MOTHER

Dear Mother: I agree that drivers should not leave motors running and keys in the ignition but you look ridiculous when you try to whitewash your son. Jerry drove off in a car that didn't belong to him — and this makes him a car thief.

Life is filled with temptations of every type. The person with moral fibre and good upbringing has the strength to resist temptation. You've probably apologized for this kid all his life which is one reason he's in trouble today.

Concert April 5

Everyone in the city knows HMCS Naden's band.

It has become a familiar sight on parades and ceremonial occasions — but not everyone has heard the group as a concert band.

Tuesday, April 5 for the first time in many years, the 50 musicians will be heard in an indoor concert at the Royal Victoria Theatre.

His Honor, Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross is among the sponsors for the benefit show. Proceeds will go towards furnishings for the Armed Services Centre.

A rousing two-hour concert is programmed to include selections from musical shows, opera and military music. Special guest artists are singer Ruth Champion, and Mr. Stanley Martin who was recently runner-up in the Metropolitan Opera auditions held in Seattle.

The band choir will present selections too.

Officer in charge of the band is Lt.-Cmdr. S. Sunderland, RCN, and conductor for the occasion is Commissioned Officer W. J. Gordon, LRAM, RCN.

Among the numbers to be presented are "Victory at Sea," by Richard Rogers; "The Grenadiers" by Waldieuf and "Cavalleria Rusticana," by Mascagni.

A highlight will be the piccolo duet, "Two Little Goldfinches," by H. Kling. This charming novelty number will be played by PO Louis Deslaurie and AB Kenneth Garland, the first and second flautists of the band.

Brig. Fred Cabellu, president of the Armed Services Centre, states tickets may be obtained at Eatons.

What's Cooking!

Menu for Men

By LOUISE MOORE

Do you ever stop to think how completely men depend upon women to keep them in good health and spirits?

Let's haul out some of the dishes he longs for.

GREEN PEA SOUP

Cook 1 cup dried green peas, 1 medium onion chopped and 2 or 3 sticks of celery with leaves finely chopped. Put in kettle and cover with cold water. Cook about 2 or 3 hours over low heat when the mixture should be rather thick.

Add salt and pepper to taste, a few drops tabasco and a good lump of butter.

VEAL CUTLET PARMESAN

Choose 1½ pounds veal cutlet, ½-inch thick. Cut in serving pieces. Sprinkle each with salt, pepper and paprika. Combine 1 cup saltine cracker crumbs, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 minced clove garlic and 1½ tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese. Coat cutlets with this mixture then dip in beaten egg—use 2 eggs for dipping the cutlets. Again dip in crumbs. With fingers pat crumb mixture firmly into meat.

Brown meat slowly and evenly in hot oil or butter in heavy skillet; reduce heat and continue cooking until meat is tender. Makes 4 servings.

JESSIE'S CUSTARD PIE

Line a 9-inch pie plate with your very best pie pastry. Beat 4 eggs. Combine 3 cups scalded milk with ½ cup sugar and stir until dissolved. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Pour into the beaten eggs and blend. Pour into the unbaked pie shell and sprinkle a little nutmeg over top.

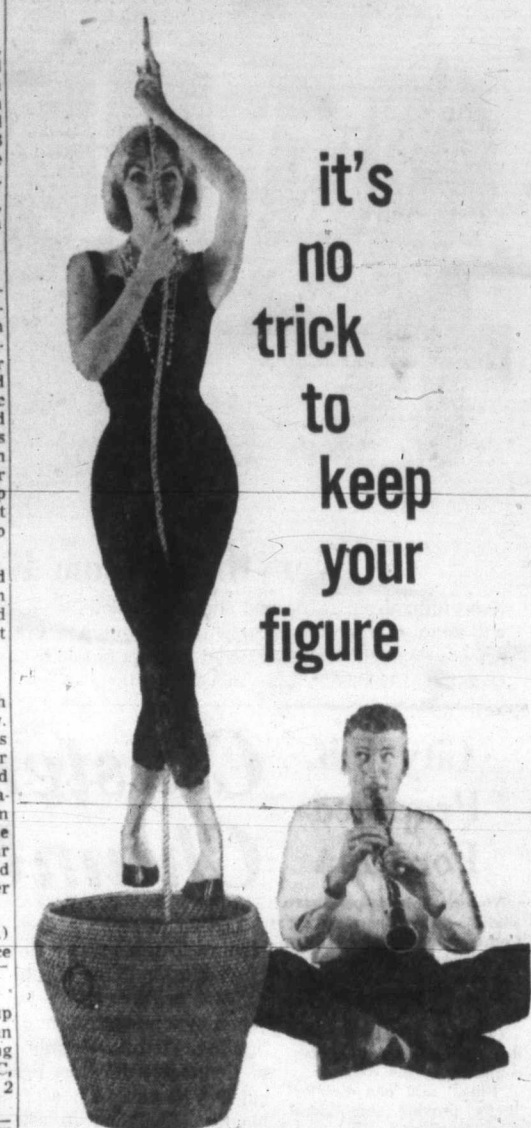

Bake in hot oven (400°F.) for 15 minutes; then reduce heat to moderate (350°F.) and continue baking until custard is set and pastry a delicious golden brown.

Put under broiler until you see it bubble and caramelize and sweeten slightly. Spread a little and you can't see any on top of baked pie and whipped cream.

Buzz Session Set For 'Brotherhood'

A film and public discussion on the problem of intermingling of the races, colors, creeds and social strata will be held at the Sunday evening service at Centennial United Church.

The National Film Board movie "A Day in the Life of Jonathan Mole" will be shown, followed by a congregational "buzz session" to try and discover "how men can be brothers in spite of ignorance, prejudice, religious beliefs and social strife."

Rev. Ernest Rands of St. Andrew's United Church, North Vancouver, will conduct Wednesday's Lenten service in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The service is fifth in a series under the auspices of the Victoria Ministerial Association.

Miss Joan Rutherford, missionary and nurse from India, will be guest speaker at the morning service at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

Color slides of cathedrals and churches of Europe will be shown Thursday at 7:45

Islanders Injured By A-Bomb Radiation

HONOLULU (AP)—Marshall Islanders are suing the United States for nearly $10,000,000 claiming injuries in a 1954 nuclear bomb test.

Lawyer E. E. Wiles, representing 82 islanders, said Thursday the Marshallese on Rongelap and Ailinginae Atolls—100 miles east of the explosion site—suffered third-degree burns, radiation sickness, nausea, loss of hair, change of skin color, probable shortening of life expectancy and other residual damage from nuclear exposure.

'House on Fire'

Tragic Oversight Costs Tot's Life

WILMINGTON, Mass. (UPI)—Mrs. Clarence Noel could think of only one thing to say: "My house is on fire!"

Then she left the phone off the hook yesterday and ran to tell her husband and two sons to flee. Her 14-month-old daughter Carol Linda was trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

The fire engines didn't come. At fire headquarters and at the telephone company, men were working frantically to trace the call. Mrs. Noel had forgotten to give her name or address.

A short time later, the fire engines arrived. Carol Linda was dead.

2,500 Squashed Snails Daily Diet for Airmen

FARNBOROUGH, England (AP)—Two RAF officers loosened their belts Friday for a weeklong feast of 2,500 crushed snails a day—all in the interest of science.

They're doing it to test the nutrient value of the great white spoils that inhabit the Libyan Desert.

Scientists think the lowly snail could be a means of saving the lives of men stranded in the desert without food or water.

An RAF pilot stumbled on possible value of the snail during a survival test in the desert. Hungry and thirsty, he caught the big snails, crushed them, strained their juice through a handkerchief and drank it.

And he thrived. Medical authorities were surprised. The snails, found miles from the nearest water—a long way for a snail—were supposed to be poisonous.

Even the roving desert Bedouin abstained from them.

Now, RAF transport planes are bringing thousands of snails back to the institute of aviation medicine here where the tests will start.

Air Commodore William Stewart, head of the institute, said:

"When we have made a proper analysis of the snails, two RAF volunteers will have a go at living on them."

Hubby There To Catch Diving Wife

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI)—Every eye followed "Tajana, the Indian goddess" as she soared to the top of the building . . . then a slip . . . and she was plunging to earth before the horror-stricken crowd.

But instead of crumpling in a heap, the 26-year-old trapeze artist fell into the arms of her husband waiting below and the audience at the opening show of the Shrine circus here yesterday drew a sigh of relief. "I would have landed on my back on the hard floor but my husband caught me and just one foot went under," Tajana, whose real name is Struppi Hanneford of Osprey, Fla., said.

She was taken to a hospital with a lacerated right foot and her condition was listed as "satisfactory."

"I was swinging real high," she explained. "I went back 100 feet and I was whipped backward. I didn't think as I was falling . . ."

"But I'm pretty lucky. The building here is not so high (about 30 feet). "I am usually in one 40 or 50 feet high."

Plasterers Impressed With City

Delegates to the annual convention of the Northwest Plaster Bureau at the Empress this week are so impressed with Victoria they are talking about bringing the 1963 national convention here.

The bureau, representing all aspects of the plastering trade in the Pacific northwest, will hold its wind-up session to night with a banquet and dance.

Yesterday's program featured a seminar on products and research.

Mass of City Daffodils Sent To Big Canadian Convention

A little bit of Olde Victoria—70 dozen daffodils—has been sent to the annual convention of the Canadian Restaurant Association in Toronto.

Some of the flowers will be made into corsages and presented to all women present on Monday, the opening day of the convention. Others will decorate tables at social functions.

They were sent by the Victoria branch of the association to publicize this city.

More than 10,000 persons are expected to attend the convention—the largest trade association convention in Canada.

Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER

Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white to the narrow sapwood to red-dish brown heartwood.

It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for glueing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY

Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS

Left exposed without paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no sheen. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES

Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly used soft woods—another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

Englishmen Write Oddest Things To Newspapers

Old Ladies Trapped,
Police Wear Lawsuit

LONDON (CP)—"Watch the correspondence columns of the newspapers," an editor once suggested. "There are some pretty good stories there."

The reporter read The Times, The Guardian and The Daily Telegraph—"Dear Sir: Regarding the validity of the British North American Act..."

He never looked at The Daily Mirror—"Dear Sir: With two other old ladies I was trapped in our factory lav..."

SAME AS LAWSUIT
And he never touched The Daily Sketch—"Dear Sir: Can you please say if a policeman's uniform is the same as a lawsuit?"

Nor The Star—"Dear Sir: I wear a wedding ring though I am not married—it gives me a feeling of equality..."

The editor clearly referred to the intelligent, enlightened, reasonable letters of Britain's quality press.

FAILED COMPLETELY
But after a year of dedicated surveillance these columns have failed completely to produce one story of significant interest to Canada. They have thrashed out every major issue in the world in cold, calculating prose. Fine stuff—but not worthy of reproduction.

None of them produced drama of universal interest, as the popular papers did in the case of three old ladies in a lav. And there were other problems to tug at the heart-strings:

STANDING AT MANTLE

"Dear Sir: My husband spends so much time in the pub he insists on eating his breakfast standing at the mantelpiece. What can I do?"

Why they write is a mystery. Seems to be just for kicks.

Who, for instance, could explain the reasons behind this: "Dear Sir: Your readers may like to know that every Sunday morning my husband and I take our boxer—Monty—for a nice, long walk. He just loves it. Sincerely yours..."

One could go on and on... But this can't end with the North East In Canada?

EDMONTON (CP)—Excerpts from letters from United States residents to Dan Campbell, director of tourist information for Alberta:

"I want to see the Toronto Exhibition. Can I get a cabin at Lake Louise, which will be near the fair grounds?"

"Is the north the same direction up there as down here, or is it further east?"

ladies still locked in the lav. Bet White, the writer of the letter, can tell her own story. It was hers anyway.

"... Then I stood on Phyllis's shoulders (it was Bet who said the ladies were old) to attract attention from the window.

"Some workmen threw snowballs at me.

"Finally the factory handyman came along with a screwdriver. You should have seen his embarrassment.

"Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be? was played on the canteen piano at dinner-time."

Pensive Gina Lollobrigida, here serving tea at her Roman villa is moving to this country so husband Milko Skofic can practise as a doctor at last.

Gina's Coming to Canada So Husband Can Work

By ROSEMARY BOXER

Rome (TNS)—There is a fairy called Fantasy who lives in a beautiful Roman villa, and not long ago she went to Hollywood leaving behind her magic wand.

In reality Fairy Fantasy is Italian movie actress Gina Lollobrigida. For thousands of Italian tiny-tots, it is the other way around.

For years they have written to Fairy Fantasy in care of their "Topoline" (Mickey Mouse) comic books, wanting to know from Fairy Fantasy the secret of how Gina became a movie star.

When Gina Lollobrigida, with her husband Milko Skofic, takes up her new life in Canada she could still continue to be Fairy Fantasy for Italian children... but would it be the same?

SMALL TOWN

Gina Lollobrigida was born in a small Sabine town about 50 miles outside Rome in a district historically noted for its beautiful women. She did not come from an extremely poor home nor were her parents wealthy.

Gina was acting small parts in movies long before her first successful film.

GRACE, CHARM

Italian movie idol and top director, Vittorio De Sica, was the first to note her grace, charm and beauty, and starred with her in the successful movie, "Pane, Amore e Fantasia" (Bread, Love and Fantasy).

It was from the title of this movie that the idea for Fairy Fantasy originated.

It was during the making of that first successful film in Rome's movie city, Cinecittà, that Gina met Milko Skofic.

NEARBY CAMP

Skofic lived in a nearby Italian refugee camp, and was said to be studying for a special Rome University medical degree. He succeeded in obtaining the degree shortly after his marriage to Gina.

In the refugee camp Skofic was known and called by all as "doctore" (doctor). When he entered Italy as a political refugee he carried with him documents that said he was a doctor of medicine.

SPECIAL LICENCE

But in Italy a foreign doctor cannot practise without obtaining a special licence granted only after a long and costly procedure.

For a stateless person the obstacles seem insurmountable. Their hope that these problems might be overcome when Milko won his Italian degree must have been a bitter moment for them both.

OFTEN QUARRELS

No one really knows the true Milko Skofic. He has never been an easy man to talk to, and frequently quarrels with those he comes in contact with including most personalities in the Italian cinema world.

In addition Skofic's forced smile, his impatient mannerisms and unusual ideas have not won him much favor with the Italian public.

NO IMPULSE

Milko Skofic's decision to emigrate to Canada is not an impulse of the moment. The U.S. and Canada are the favorite countries for most Yugoslav refugees.

It is time now for Milko to become Dr. Skofic.

April 1 Deadline For Beauty Queens

Girls wanting to enter the 1960 Miss Victoria contest have until April 1 to get their entry forms in, Brian Small, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce contest committee, said last night.

Some 30 girls have already entered but more are expected. Entry forms and information can be obtained from the Jaycee office, 816 Wharf Street.

Judges for the contest will be Mrs. Nona Damaske, Mrs. George Chatterton, William Heaney, Eric Mallett and Capt. J. C. Gray, chairman.

A special, pre-judging elimination contest will be held in the Empress Hotel June 8. Ten finalists will be chosen.

South Island Witnesses Confer Here Next Week

Semi-annual conference of southern Vancouver Island Jehovah's Witnesses will be held April 1, 2 and 3 at S. J. Willis Junior High School, with about 800 members expected to attend.

Theme of the assembly will be "Seek Peace and Pursue It." Program begins Friday night with a model ministry school.

An immersion service will be conducted Saturday at 1:30 p.m. by George Saltmarsh, Peter Nelson, presiding minister of the South Victoria congregation, will speak in the evening on "Properly Viewing the Full Time Ministry."

Highlight of the assembly will be an address Sunday by Mr. Saltmarsh, "Finding Peace in a Troubled World."

'Peace' to 'War'

Trigger Fingers Ready At U.K. Missile Bases

FELTWELL, England (Reuters)—Both British and American fingers are on the "trigger" at this Norfolk air base of probably the most devastating array of nuclear weapons in western Europe.

An air force officer from each country, however, must receive separate orders from London and Washington before Felwell's 1,700-mile-range Thor ballistic missiles can be fired.

FIVE SQUADRONS

In the event of all-out war, orders to launch the Thors would go to five British-American squadrons scattered around this bleak, wind-swept corner of Norfolk County.

On each squadron a United States air force officer, seated at a control console, would turn a key from a position marked "Peace" to another marked "War."

Then, a British air force man would turn another key in the console and three missiles, each with a "punch" equivalent to 1,000,000 tons of high explosive would be ready for firing.

JOINT CONTROL

This is how the two governments ensure joint control over their "nuclear deterrent." The system closely resembles that used in many banks, where the manager and the chief cashier have separate keys, each of which is needed to open the vault door.

Although the final firing of the British-based Thors would be the act of the American "authentication" officer had received his orders from a different chain of command.

Felwell is one of four bases situated along the British east coast, each designed to launch 15 missiles by five squadrons. This base and two others now are in "operation." The fourth will reach that state by the middle of this year. Then, all 60 Thors delivered to Britain by the U.S. under a 1958 agreement will be in position on their launching pads.

The missiles and their associated equipment are supplied by the United States, which also trains RAF personnel in their use. Britain provides the sites and the bulk of the men to man the bases.

Montreal Pulmonator

'Football' Lifesaver Weighs in Ounces

MONTREAL (CP)—A lightweight device no bigger than a football has been introduced by a Montreal firm as a resuscitator for such emergencies as drownings.

Canadian Liquid Air Co. said the innovation—called a Pulmonator—can be used to inflate at intermittent periods the lungs of a person who has stopped breathing.

The Pulmonator is a specially designed self-inflating rubber bag, outfitted with a valve and face piece. Although primarily to supply air, it can be connected to an oxygen cylinder.

The device weighs less than one pound and can provide 1,200 to 1,400 cubic centimetres of air with moderate compression and up to three litres with maximum compression.

A foam plastic liner automatically expands the bag after each compression. To prevent air escaping there is a special valve.

The company said the device is made for service at hospitals, camps, vacation centres and swimming pools.

No Priority?

Garibaldi Waits Turn

VANCOUVER (CP)—Development of Garibaldi Park, a possible site for the 1968 winter Olympics, will proceed in a planned way and not at the expense of other B.C. park sites, says David Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation.

"As long as our kids see it, I couldn't care less if you never see Garibaldi Park developed," Dr. Turner told the lower mainland park advisory committee.

He insisted on parks being developed according to a master plan and refused to subscribe to any idea of "helter-skelter development" but reaffirmed the provincial government's proposal to develop a winter Olympic site on a 50-per-cent cost sharing basis with Ottawa.

Recreation Minister Westwood last month told of a development plan calling for a start this year on a nine-mile road into the Diamond Head region of Garibaldi, about 35 miles north of Vancouver.

John Taylor, Tory MP for Vancouver-Burrard, said Thursday conflict between the federal and provincial governments may result in Banff being selected as Canada's site for the 1968 winter Olympics.

To Propel Huge Laboratory

Ready to Test in Five Years

U.S. Starts Work on Atomic Motor for Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government disclosed yesterday that it is contracting for a nuclear motor to operate and propel huge scientific laboratories on exploratory missions deep in space.

The plant will be ready for flight testing in about five years. It has been officially described by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as the first generator capable of supplying "both auxiliary power and useful propulsive power" for spacecraft. U.S. officials doubt Russia has anything like it.

It is expected to be the forerunner of nuclear-electrical power plants for hoisting 15-ton automatic space laboratories from orbits near the earth to lunar or planetary distances. The flight version expected in five years will weigh about 1,500 pounds, including radiation shielding, and will be designed to run unattended in space for a year. It will cost about $8,000,000.

The system is called Snap 8, an advanced member of the AEC's family of space instrument power plants known collectively as "systems for nuclear auxiliary power." Earlier Snap versions deliver from 2.5 to 3,000 watts of electrical power. Snap 8 is an atomic reactor whose heat vaporizes mercury to drive an electrical generator.

In recent Congressional testimony Harold B. Finger, NASA propulsion expert, said

Snap 8 would be the first space electrical system of providing both driving and instrumental power.

NASA said in yesterday's announcement that Snap 8 eventually will be doubled in power for 15-ton spacecraft to be boosted into orbit by a three-stage Saturn.

The Saturn, whose booster stage will develop 1,500,000 pounds of thrust, will be ready for deep space missions of this magnitude by the time Snap 8 power plant is ready for flight tests. Snap 8 also could be put in orbit by the Centaur rocket to be tested next year.

Peace Scheme Not Flawless But Approved

Provincial water comptroller A. F. Paget yesterday approved the Peace River Power Development Company's hydro plan but not without pointing to its flaws.

Bound by terms of a document which all but compelled his approval, the comptroller was still free to recommend modifications to the company's proposal and his recommendations are likely to add several million dollars to the over-all cost.

BEFORE LICENCE

His views on certain aspects of the project will probably have to be adopted by the company before a water licence is issued.

He differed with the company's proposals on such key matters as:

1. Height of the main dam which he believes should be 650 feet rather than 640 feet so that it will have "free-board" of 25 feet above the estimated water level.

2. Total cost of the project which he believes may be more than $700,000,000 rather than $638,600,000.

3. Slope angles of the faces of the main dam which he believes cannot be computed "until additional tests and studies have been completed."

4. The proposed 400-mile transmission system which his report states has "little or no reserve capacity."

5. Total power output which he estimates will be "somewhat less" than envisioned by the company.

6. The project's 5 per cent contingency allowance which he believes should be 10 per cent.

In addition to the engineering qualifications, Mr. Paget said the company's proposal contained "several other matters... with which I am not in complete agreement."

The report recommends that the transmission system be increased from 500,000 volts to 550,000 volts, and adds that

U.S., Soviet Submarines May Cuddle

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Salute to Tourist Week committee is attempting to arrange visits here by both a Russian and United States submarine July 2 to 9. It would also like to see the vessels lie side by side in harbor.

Ald. Frank Baker said invitations have been sent to both countries.

One in Serious Condition

RIFLE BULLETS GREET BOMBED ALABAMA JEWS

Nazi-Loving Youth Hunted by Police

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—A homemade gasoline bomb shattered against the window of a crowded Jewish synagogue last night, and members of the congregation who rushed out were met by rifle fire.

Two persons were injured by the bullets from a semi-automatic 22-calibre rifle. One was rushed to surgery in "very critical" condition.

WIDE SEARCH

Police immediately began a widespread search for a 16-year-old high school junior who told friends recently he planned to "give my life for a bunch of theirs." They said the boy often sported a homemade Nazi armband and a Nazi combat helmet painted red.

The boy's father and a friend were questioned by police who found a taxicab abandoned near the Beth Israel Synagogue shortly after the 9 p.m. shooting and bombing. The cab contained a rifle, a red-painted Nazi helmet, a machete and a can of gasoline.

WHITE TEENAGERS

State investigator Harry Sims said he believed three white teenagers were involved. "The prime suspect, a high school student at Attalla, Ala., told friends recently he planned to break into a National Guard armory here, steal hand grenades and kill some Jews."

Huge Dam Still Holding

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP)—Thousands of Brazilians were menaced today by flood waters backing up behind the Oros Dam in north-east Brazil's Jaguaribe Valley, but government officials denied reports that the dam had burst.

Not Canada

Bomarc Junked By U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP)—The U.S. Air Force announced Friday it is cancelling most of its planned Bomarc-B missile program.

But it promised enough development to deliver two squadrons of the anti-aircraft missile to Canada.

PULLED SWITCH

After emphasizing for months that manned bombers will pose a major threat for North American defence for years to come, the air force pulled a switch, saying the reason for the change is "the emphasis in the over-all threat is shifting toward ballistic missiles."

ALERT SYSTEM

Ditched with the Bomarc-B will be part of the giant semi-automatic detection and alerting system known as SAGE. In Ottawa, Defence Minister Pearson said the Canadian government "intends to go ahead with its plans to install Bomarc-B bases near North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que."

NO FIGURES

He also told Parliament a cheaper electronic control system for the Bomarc will be built in Canada than originally planned, but he gave no figures.

Columbia First

Slowdown In Cards

By TERRY HAMMOND

Development of the Peace River hydro potential will have to come more slowly than planned if the vast Columbia River project starts yielding power by 1968 as scheduled.

This became increasingly apparent yesterday in the wake of B.C. Water Comptroller A. F. Paget's report on the feasibility of Peace River

Power Development Co.'s power scheme.

Mr. Paget pronounced the Peace River technically feasible but raised doubts that it could proceed at its intended pace if the B.C. power market was invaded by any other major power source between 1965 and 1976. (Present indications are that the Columbia would start yielding power in 1968.)

Shortly after the Paget report was released in Victoria yesterday the eyes of Peace River Power (Wenner-Gren) opponents became riveted on a sentence only two paragraphs from the end of the seven-page document.

The sentence reads, "The energy generated under these proposals could be marketed in B.C. within the time expressed (1968-1976) provided no other major resource development, either hydro or thermal, absorbs part of the market."

Mr. Paget later told the Colonist that the sentence does not mean that development on the Columbia would necessarily jeopardize development on the Peace, or vice-versa.

He said it could mean a "stretch-out" of the Peace River plan which at present calls for generating capacity of 546,000 kilowatts in 1968 and 3,145,000 kilowatts by 1976.

B.C. Energy Board chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said from Vancouver last night that he agrees with the statement in the Paget report.

Demonstrators Shot First African Government Says

LONDON (CP)—The South African government charged weapons, including firearms, Friday night that Monday's bloody riot at Sharpeville "re-tors shot first" and the police resorted to a planned demonstration of about 20,000 natives fence-and avoid, even more in which demonstrators at tragic results.

JOHANNESBURG (AP)—The police officer in charge of the Sharpeville area where more than 60 Negroes were killed Monday denied yesterday the thousands of Negroes were called to assemble outside the police station before the shooting began.

Anglican Bishop Ambrose Reeves has asserted that wounded victims of the shooting said a "big white boss" was coming from Pretoria to address them and that was why they assembled.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations security council will hold an urgent meeting Tuesday to take up the shooting of Negro demonstrators by South African police.

Segregation Out Says Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—downtown merchants and operators of the plush strip hotels that they would ban segregation in casinos, show rooms and cocktail lounges. This gambling resort had been termed "the fifth worst Jim Crow area in the nation" by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Berlin Defence 'Worthless'

PARIS (Reuters)—West Berlin's 11,000-man allied garrison is "worth nothing" from a military point of view, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Friday.

"They are too few to prepare a war against us," Khrushchev said at a press luncheon after a reporter asked him why he questioned the maintenance of the status quo in the split city where allied military forces are comparatively weak.

Flaring up slightly in an otherwise affable, hour-long, question-and-answer session, Khrushchev added:

"If it is a question of preparing a war against us, we wish there were 200,000 men there (West Berlin) or even half a million. It would be easier to wipe them out and to get them out of our way."

Khrushchev attended a reception for French parliamentarians Friday night and guests there later quoted him as saying it would be "unthinkable" for West Germany to extend to the east. The Soviet premier added:

"I tell you frankly that any change in connection with (Communist) East Germany is definitely and forever excluded in the east. Therefore I think that West Germany should try to find a compensation in the west of Europe. Remember my words."

Oil Tanker Explodes

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—A tanker exploded Friday night in the important oil port of La Cruz. First reports said 11 crew members were injured and 23 were missing.

Something Special In Chesnut's Offer

The event Victoria's gardeners wait for is at hand.

Sunday morning's Colonist will contain M. V. Chesnut's first free seed offer of the year.

This year, he says, it isn't tomatoes; the tomato seeds he's offered in the past are now readily available.

But it's something "very special."

'Marginal Sanitation' Spreading Dysentery

DUNCAN—A "widespread and severe" outbreak of dysentery in "epidemic" proportions has swept the area from Nanaimo to Duncan and is now reported north of Nanaimo.

Medical health officer C. J. G. Mackenzie suggested persons suffering from it should remain in bed until their doctor and take every precaution to stop its spread.

"We have had 37 laboratory diagnoses in the last six weeks. That's a lot," he said from his home here last night. "We estimate there are five to 10 cases for every lab test, placing the total at from 250 to 500."

No deaths have been attributed to the bacterial dysentery, although Dr. Mackenzie said there is a chance it could be fatal to young children or older persons who are in a weakened condition.

It is believed it started in the rural area north of Chemainus. The source has not been tracked down although it usually can be, he said.

"We, in this area—in the whole province, as a matter of fact—are a pretty marginal sanitation people," he commented.

Lately there have been reports north of Nanaimo, indicating that the epidemic is continuing to sweep the Island. The germ can be detected first when a person seems to have "off moments"—feeling tired, then the start of diarrhoea and a feeling of weakness that forces the person to bed.

"Those who have these symptoms should call their doctor and remain in bed," he said.

Dr. Mackenzie said the germ is becoming prevalent in various parts of the province, including the Kootenays from where he came last fall. "Ever since I came here there have been reports of the germ," he said. "It is not a new germ, so there is no doubt it was here before."

He doubted there had on the Island in the past.

Disposal Unsatisfactory In Every Community

NANAIMO—Health unit director Dr. C. J. G. Mackenzie states in his annual report that "not one single community garbage disposal system with the Central Vancouver Health Unit is satisfactory."

Burying or burning was the only safe and satisfactory garbage disposal method and nowhere in the unit—these methods used in place of open-face dumps.

Cowichan Brief 'Misleading'

Could Plays In Duncan

DUNCAN—World famous pianist Glenn Gould will be guest artist Tuesday at the last concert of the season here with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. Concert starts at 8.15 p.m. in the Cowichan Junior-Senior High School.

Lake Cowichan

All Groups Support Drive for Centre

LAKE COWICHAN—Organizations here have so far approved the proposed $14,000 community centre without a negative voice.

"Spearheading the plan, Henry Lundgren said yesterday, "The response we have received so far has been very gratifying, indeed, to the committee."

So far about half of the more than 15 groups have been approached by members of the planning committee who have spoken on the need to the centre and shown plans. It is the largest community project ever undertaken here, and will consist of a building to replace the 30-year-old meeting hall.

"We don't visualize construction starting until sometime next year," said Mr. Lundgren. "We haven't entered into that phase yet."

Members of the committee are presently "selling" the plan to local groups. It is expected all the groups will have been visited by the end of May.

Quist Cow Tops Herds

DUNCAN—Josephine, a Jersey-Holstein cross owned by Carl and Norma Quist at Westholme, headed the top of the Cowichan Dairy Herd Improvement Association for February.

She gave 16,860 pounds of milk and 685 pounds of butterfat. Second was an Ayrshire, from Heatherbank Farms at Cobble Hill who gave 13,842 pounds of milk and 581 of butterfat.

DUNCAN—Education Minister Leslie Peterson "took exception" to a brief compiled by two school board trustees here claiming "stringent" and "low standards" in government policy towards providing schools.

He told a group here this week that included members of the school board, "I don't think you are being fair," and denied their charges. He said, "This district gets priority so there will be no delay." He claimed the brief was "misleading."

The brief by trustees J. G. Fraser and Wilf Peck, approved by the board, claimed stringent requirement in allowing only three-year building programs and that there had been an avoidable delay in the education department which changed a bylaw for building funds without notifying the board.

The minister said that during the three years the board could place before the people a further plebiscite, and that the department had not cut down on the extras.

On the delay, Mr. Peterson said the board's failure to advertise the order-in-council had caused the delay and not the fact the department made a mistake in addition and changed the bond interest rate on the referendum. The board placed before the voters the referendum that had not been changed.

Little Hope Of School Secession

DUNCAN—School board trustee Wilf Peck said yesterday he agrees with Education Minister Leslie Peterson that there is little hope of a separate school district being formed south of here.

Both commented on reports that the Koksilah Valley Taxpayers Association has decided to take to the Supreme Court a dispute with the school board over "downgrading" of a school.

"Their district was consolidated with the rest of School District 65 on a recommendation of the Cameron report," said Mr. Peck. "How could we unscramble the assets now?"

The basis for dispute here "goes deeper, and has to be determined on the local level," said the minister.

Empire Day Parade Off Again

NANAIMO—There won't be an Empire Day parade revival in Nanaimo after all.

After indicating that it would run a parade this year, Nanaimo branch of Canadian Legion has backed down.

Legion executive declared that there was insufficient time to organize a parade. It had previously announced that it would run an entirely local parade.

There was no Empire Day celebration here last year after Junior Chamber of Commerce abandoned the parade project in 1958 after operating it for eight years.

School Tax to Rise? Grant Will Tell Tale

DUNCAN—Taxpayers won't know if there will be an increase in school taxation this year until the size of the provincial grant is known about the middle of next month.

The Chemainus area of Cowichan school district under the tentative school board budget faces a sharp increase according to figures released to North Cowichan council.

"We won't know the figures for the budget, or if there is even an increase, really, until the department of education tells us what the grant is for our district about April 15," Trustee Wilf Peck said yesterday.

Total tentative budget, released yesterday, is $1,166,497 gross. District taxation is listed at $753,271, of which only $447,351 is the basic levy and $305,920 for capital, debt and other costs.

Government share is estimated at $341,575 for basic operating costs and $41,775 for capital debt.

Total 1960 assessment values for rural North Cowichan and city properties is based at $6,680,277. Per-centage proportion of taxation is Duncan, 13.61; North Cowichan, 32.95; rural, 33.44.

City Job Proposed For Gina

Victoria hotelkeepers have asked the Chamber of Commerce to support them in a bid to entice movie companies to build studios and make pictures in Victoria.

Chamber directors yesterday agreed to see what they could do to this end. "Fine," said one director. "Let's provide some local work for Gina."

Another replied: "Haven't we had enough trouble already with busts?"

Airborne Bunny Expected

An airborne Easter Bunny and hundreds of dozens of Easter eggs will be highlights of Easter Saturday, April 16, this year, for Greater Victoria youngsters.

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will hide the eggs in a special area—not yet selected—and children will be invited to hunt for the eggs.

During the egg hunt a "bunny copter" will land in the area, carrying the Easter Bunny, who will mingle with the children and hand out prizes to the lucky ones, probably bicycles.

Jetliner Coming Today

Anyone who spent yesterday afternoon looking for a DC-8 in the skies over Victoria can look again today. This time it's coming.

The 127-passenger Trans-Canada Air Lines plane, soon to be used on a four-hour Montreal to Vancouver flight, will circle Greater Victoria today between 2 and 3 p.m. weather permitting.

It had been reported that the plane would appear yesterday.

Sudbury II Rides Out Bad Storm

Storm-battered Victoria tugboat Sudbury II was hove to yesterday riding out a Pacific storm with winds up to 65 miles an hour. Officials of the Island Tug and Barge said last night the tug and its aircraft carrier tow has been almost constantly battered by gales for past three weeks. Her last reported position was some 500 miles off the Japanese coast.

Cluster or Modern? Chamber Asks Both

Unable to reach a decision as to whether the city's cluster lights should remain, or their place be taken by a modern form of lighting, Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors decided yesterday after lengthy discussion to ask for both.

The directors were asked by Bernard Cox to endorse a recommendation of the tourist trade group that no cluster lights should be removed as they were a valuable tourist attraction.

Opposition to the motion was expressed by various merchants. Director T. G. Denny said the cluster lights were inadequate and were affecting the business of downtown merchants.

LOCAL HATRED "It is just an example of the local hatred of having things changed," he said. "It is a shame to condemn Victoria to inadequate street lighting."

He pointed out that the 700 block on Yates had removed the cluster lights and installed modern lighting, much to the benefit of merchants on that street.

"Yet I doubt if many people realize that the clusters have gone," he added.

Director Aubrey Kent agreed that downtown lighting was inadequate and thought if clusters were to remain they should be confined to areas like the Inner Harbor.

INEFFICIENT Peter Forward, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, said that his group had made a study of cluster lights and tests had shown they were quite inefficient.

"We need adequate lighting, and it is surely not necessary in the interests of the tourists to conduct the business of the whole city as if it were an antique castle. The city should come out of the dark ages and face realities," he said.

Director R. A. Lort disagreed with Mr. Denny. He wanted the clusters to remain because they are part of old Victoria.

OVERPLAYED Mr. Lort thought the safety angle of the present lighting system had been overplayed.

"The street accidents that occur here are mainly due to rotten driving and blind pedestrians, and not to bad lighting," he said.

He added that if the bright lights of the 700 block were extended the other areas would merely attract the "Yates Street cowboys."

"Let them stay where they are," he said.

MANY ACTS Former president Hugh Stephen, who supported retention of the cluster lights, suggested that Victoria put on many acts during the year for the tourists and then return to the normal everyday life.

He suggested the city could have both cluster and modern lights. It was then that director E. E. Pearlman moved an amendment to the motion that the cluster lights should remain and a modern system be put in as well.

The amendment was endorsed unanimously.

Winter Work Plan Provides 76 Jobs

PORT ALBERNI—Seventy-six men were put to work as a direct result of the 1959-60 winter employment campaign in the Alberni Valley, according to a report made by D. D. Sergeant, secretary of the local committee, at the meeting this week.

Mr. Sergeant said that $44,331 had been paid so far in wages as a result of the program.

Other reports at the meeting showed that as of March 17 there were 992 benefit claimants in the area served by the Port Alberni office of the National Employment Service. A total of 1,062 persons, including 199 fishermen, were listed as unemployed.

Essay contests of the theme "Why Stay in School" are being promoted in A. W. Neill Junior High, Smith Memorial School and Alberni District High by the Port Alberni branch of the NES.

Local groups have donated toward a prize fund. The contest is designed to discourage school drop-outs and impress on the students the advantages of education.

Plans were also discussed to set up a rehabilitation committee to work in the interests of handicapped employables. The program is expected to get under way in the near future.

NANAIMO—Business in Nanaimo is quiet and many stores are operating with reduced staffs.

This was noted by National Employment Service manager Jack Clark, but it has been fairly obvious these last few weeks to the casual observer.

Streets have been relatively quiet, and shoppers sparse apart from Friday nights during late-opening.

Mr. Clark said that 1,212 men and 305 women are drawing unemployment insurance benefits. This is an increase over the same period last year when 985 men and 337 women were seeking employment.

Pender Island Chamber

PORT WASHINGTON—L. J. Armstrong was elected president at the annual meeting of Pender Island Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. G. A. Scott was elected vice-president; Mrs. W. L. Shirley, secretary, and Capt. W. J. R. Beech, treasurer.

Council members are N. N. Grimmer, S. P. Corbett, R. A. Brackett, Walter Canliffe, W. L. Shirley, Mrs. George Logan, Herbert Spalding, W. D. Gill and Stanley Mullock.

A start will be made on Prior Campsite Park soon to have it ready for the tourist season, the president's report noted.

QUALICUM BEACH—Funeral services were held for Audrey Marie Stevens, 66, from St. Mark's Anglican Church this week with Archdeacon A. E. Hendy officiating.

Mrs. Stevens, born in Woodstock, Ontario, and educated at Haverhill College, Toronto, is survived by her husband.

Hire the Handicapped

DUNCAN—Jack Humphreys, chief rehabilitation officer for the Workmen's Compensation Board, called for a more liberal attitude by employers during a speech here.

Handicapped persons are being overlooked by officials who do the hiring because in many cases a policy has not been set down, he said.

UCLUELET—The Ucluelet recreation commission is organizing a series of physical education classes to be held in the recreation hall. Instructor is RCMP Constable Pierre Nobert.

LAKE COWICHAN—Elected by acclamation to head the Lake Cowichan United Organizations were Budd Eckert, president; Fred Pierce, vice-president; Mrs. Ralph Godfrey, secretary; and Nels Olsen, treasurer.

11-Per-Cent Wage Boosts Awarded Police, Firemen

Saanich, Oak Bay Raised

Wage increases of approximately 11 per cent have been awarded by a conciliation board to Victoria police and firemen, with allied increases going also to police and firemen of Saanich and Oak Bay.

Mayor Percy Scourrah was not available for comment on the award which will cost city taxpayers an additional $117,000 a year, but Ald. Arthur Dowell, senior member of city council, said:

RATHER SURPRISED

Award was signed by Frederick Cope, of Vancouver, chairman of the board, and Paul Payne, representing the police and fire unions. A minority report will be issued by Linden Bell, representative of Victoria and the municipalities.

CONSTABLES LOWER

The 1959 contract left first-class Victoria constables $3.01 a month below fourth-year firemen, with comparable differences for other ranks.

Yesterday's award first closed this gap by bringing police scale to parity with that of the firemen; then gave an 11 per cent increase across the board to both departments.

Saanich department members receive 98 per cent of the city figures. Oak Bay men receive $10 per month less.

$117,000 YEAR

Dennis A. Young, comptroller-treasurer of Victoria, said last night the increase would cost the city $117,000 per year.

In addition, city police were granted a three-week holiday with pay after eight years, and four weeks after 20 years.

Lorne Shandley, president of the Victoria police union, said the award "brings us back to our original position with regard to other major police and fire departments of the province."

ROUND FIGURES

In round figures, Victoria's first-class constables will now receive $456.50 per month—and the increase is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1960.

First-class constables in Vancouver, now receiving $451, have been offered a 3½ per cent increase. New Westminster officers get $5 per month less than Vancouver. West Vancouver men are now receiving $451, in a new contract.

Last year, while departments outside Greater Victoria were awarded percentage increases, Victoria police were given a flat $10 raise.

USEFUL GUIDE

Majority members of the conciliation board said they "take the view that wage rates to police officers other than in Victoria provide a useful guide which cannot be ignored."

These board members held that a substantial wage increase was necessary to reduce the disparity between Victoria and other parts of B.C., stemming from the 1959 agreement.

NANAIMO—Departure Bay waterworks and fire protection will hold its annual meeting on Tuesday. One trustee will be elected for a three-year term.

Central Saanich Chamber

'Don't Shift Ferry Run'

Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce has implored the provincial government not to shift the Brentwood-Mill Bay ferry to a new run from Deep Cove to Cherry Point.

In a strongly worded resolution, the chamber claimed:

Businesses directly concerned with giving service to ferry passengers have been established at Brentwood. Approaches to roads have been built and the road system had proved its ability to handle traffic in all weather. Owners of property at Deep Cove have not given approval to the plan. Roads and terminal facilities in a Deep Cove site would be expensive.

The proposed move would do nothing to better the service. Shifting of the ferry service would discourage tourists from spending more time in the Victoria area.

Saanich Boy 'Satisfactory' After Being Hit by Car

A Saanich boy is in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital after being in an accident at Trans-Canada Highway and Tillicum Road at 4:35 p.m. yesterday.

Richard Henson, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Henson, 3715 Tillicum, received a possible concussion, a severe cut high on the forehead and shock. He was hurried to hospital by Saanich police.

Driver of the car involved, police said, was Florence M. Nelson, 1131 Skeena Place, who was driving out from Victoria.

One eyewitness, Ben Fenger, of the Goldstream Coffee Shop, told the Colonist:

"I stopped at the Tillicum crosswalk to let two boys cross. One of them suddenly ran across the road and was hit by a car travelling west." hospital where he was treated. The boy's mother was with him when he was rushed to X-rayed and admitted.

Cyclist Skids Into Car, Fractures Leg Badly

A 40-year-old motorcyclist was taken to hospital after his cycle went out of control and skidded into the path of a station wagon in the 900 block Pandora at 6:25 p.m. yesterday.

Fred A. Smith, 920 Pandora, who suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, was later reported in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

He came out of a driveway on his lightweight motorcycle, turned left onto Pandora and went into a skid when his front wheel buckled, sliding into a station wagon driven by Dennis Carter, 2564 Penrhyn, said police.

U.S. Starts Work on Atomic Motor for Space

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government disclosed yesterday that it is contracting for a nuclear motor to operate and propel huge scientific laboratories on exploratory missions deep in space.

The plant will be ready for flight testing in about five years. It has been officially described by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) as the first generator capable of supplying "both auxiliary power and useful propulsive power" for spacecraft. U.S. officials doubt Russia has anything like it.

It is expected to be the forerunner of nuclear-electrical power plants for hoisting 15-ton automatic space laboratories from orbits near the earth to lunar or planetary distances.

The flight version expected in five years will weigh about 1,500 pounds, including radiation shielding, and will be designed to run unattended in space for a year. It will cost about $8,000,000.

The system is called Snap 8, an advanced member of the AEC's family of space instrument power plants known collectively as "systems for nuclear auxiliary power."

Earlier Snap versions deliver from 25 to 3,000 watts of electrical power. Snap 8 is an atomic reactor whose heat vaporizes mercury to drive an electrical generator.

In recent Congressional testimony Harold B. Finger, NASA propulsion expert, said Snap 8 would be the first space electrical system of providing both driving and instrumental power.

NASA said in yesterday's announcement that Snap 8 eventually will be doubled in power for 15-ton spacecraft to be boosted into orbit by a three-stage Saturn.

The Saturn, whose booster stage will develop 1,500,000 pounds of thrust, will be ready for deep space missions of this magnitude by the time Snap 8 power plant is ready for flight tests. Snap 8 also could be put in orbit by the Centaur rocket to be tested next year.

Peace Scheme Not Flawless

Provincial water comptroller A. F. Paget yesterday approved the Peace River Power Development Company's hydro plan but not without pointing to its flaws.

Bound by terms of a document which all but compelled his approval, the comptroller was still free to recommend modifications to the company's proposal and his recommendations are likely to add several million dollars to the over-all cost. (See Page 2)

BEFORE LICENCE

His views on certain aspects of the project will probably have to be adopted by the company before a water licence is issued.

He differed with the company's proposals on such key matters as:

1. Height of the main dam which he believes should be 650 feet rather than 640 feet so that it will have "free-board" of 25 feet above the estimated water level.

2. Total cost of the project which he believes may be more than $700,000,000 rather than $638,600,000.

Slowdown In Cards

By TERRY HAMMOND

Development of the Peace River hydro potential will have to come more slowly than planned if the vast Columbia River project starts yielding power by 1968 as scheduled.

This became increasingly apparent yesterday in the wake of B.C. Water Comptroller A. F. Paget's report on the feasibility of Peace River Power Development Co.'s power scheme.

Mr. Paget pronounced the Peace River technically feasible but raised doubts that it could proceed at its intended pace if the B.C. power market was invaded by any other major power source between 1968 and 1976. (Present indications are that the Columbia would start yielding power in 1968.)

Shortly after the Paget report was released in Victoria yesterday the eyes of Peace River Power (Westcoast) opponents were riveted on a sentence only two paragraphs from the end of the seven-page document.

The sentence reads: "The energy generated under these proposals could be marketed in B.C. within the times expressed (1968-1976) provided no other major resource development, either hydro or thermal, absorbs part of the market."

Mr. Paget later told the Colonist that the sentence does not mean that development on the Columbia would necessarily jeopardize development on the Peace, or vice-versa.

He said it could mean a "stretch-out" of the Peace River plan which at present calls for generating capacity of 546,000 kilowatts in 1968 and 3,145,000 kilowatts by 1976.

B.C. Energy Board chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said from Vancouver last night that he agrees with the statement in the Paget report.

'Nazi' Sought In Alabama

GADSDEN, Ala. (UPI)—A homemade gasoline bomb shattered against the window of a crowded Jewish synagogue last night, and members of the congregation who rushed out were met by rifle fire.

Two persons were injured by the bullets from a semi-automatic .22-calibre rifle. One was rushed to surgery in "very critical" condition.

WIDE SEARCH

Police immediately began a widespread search for a 16-year-old high school junior who told friends recently he planned to "give my life for a bunch of theirs." They said the boy often sported a homemade Nazi armband and a Nazi combat helmet painted red.

The boy's father and a friend were questioned by police who found a taxicab abandoned near the Beth Israel Synagogue shortly after the 9 p.m. shooting and bombing. The cab contained a rifle, a red-painted Nazi helmet, a machete and a can of gasoline.

WHITE TEENAGERS

State investigator Harry Sims said he believed three white teenagers were involved. The prime suspect, a high school student at Attalla, Ala., told friends recently he planned to break into a National Guard armory here, steal hand grenades and "kill some Jews."

Mistake Kills Babies

FALL RIVER, Mass. (UPI)—Three newborn babies died in a hospital because boric acid was mistakenly substituted for distilled water in preparing their formulas, it was disclosed Friday.

The deaths in Truesdale Hospital were attributed to a rare malady until state toxicologists discovered the infants died of boron poisoning.

"It looks more like an accident than any reckless or wilful action on the part of anyone," police said. They contemplated "no criminal action at this time."

Berlin Defence 'Worthless'

PARIS (Reuters).—West Berlin's 11,000-man allied garrison is "worth nothing" from a military point of view, Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Friday.

"They are too few to prepare a war against us," Khrushchev said at a press luncheon after a reporter asked him why he questioned the maintenance of the status quo in the split city where allied military forces are comparatively weak.

Flaying up slightly in an otherwise affable, hour-long question and answer session, Khrushchev added:

"If it is a question of preparing a war against us, we wish there were 200,000 men there (West Berlin) or even half a million. It would be easier to wipe them out and to get them out of our way."

Khrushchev attended a reception for French parliamentarians Friday night and guests there later quoted him as saying it would be "unthinkable" for West Germany to extend to the east. The Soviet premier added:

"I tell you frankly that any change in connection with (Communists) East Germany is definitely and forever excluded in the east. Therefore I think that West Germany should try to find a compensation in the west of Europe. Remember my words."

Bomarc Junked By U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP).—The U.S. Air Force announced Friday it is cancelling most of its planned Bomarc-B missile program.

But it promised enough development to deliver two squadrons of the anti-aircraft missile to Canada.

PULLED SWITCH

After emphasizing for months that manned bombers will pose a major threat for North American defence for years to come, the air force pulled a switch, saying the reason for the change is "the emphasis in the over-all threat is shifting toward ballistic missiles."

ALERT SYSTEM

Ditched with the Bomarc-B will be part of the giant semi-automatic detection and alerting system known as SAGE. In Ottawa, Defence Minister Pearson said the Canadian government intends to go ahead with its plans to install Bomarc-B bases near North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que.

NO FIGURES

He also told Parliament a cheaper electronic control system for the Bomarc will be built in Canada than originally planned, but he gave no figures.

Something Special In Chesnut's Offer

The event Victoria's gardeners wait for is at hand.

But it's something "very special."
